JOHNSTOWN UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Merriam Expected To Sign New Oil Measure

LEGALITY OF OTHER BILLS QUESTIONED

Early action by Gov. Frank F. Merriam to settle finally the Huntington Beach tideland oil fight was anticipated today, according to a United Press dispatch to the Register.

There were numerous indications that the chief executive would remove the previously approved Olson bill from state statute books by signing another measure introduced by Assemblyman John H. O'Donnell and approved by the legislature.

Approval of a new bill seemed imminent on the basis of the governor's remarks to a press conference that he had "been giving a good deal of attention to the oil bills."

Simultaneously, he released a tabulated summary of the Olson and O'Donnell bills and a third bill measure sponsored by Assemblyman Ralph L. Welsh, Los Angeles. Comparisons shown in the table favored the O'Donnell measure on virtually every point. The governor also released a statement emphasizing the bill's favorable points. He declined to say who had prepared the summary or the statement, but said he had been considering them.

Legality Questioned

A significant point of the tabulated analysis was that it pointed out both the Welsh and Olson measures were of questionable legality since they affected only the Huntington Beach field. Opponents have attacked the proposals since they have been in court as special legislation. Of the O'Donnell bill, the summary said: "Adds section to present act, which is"

STEEL WORKER TELLS BEATING

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(UP)—James E. Musgrove, worker in the Republic Steel company's Warren, O., mill told the senate post office committee today he had been threatened with hanging, beaten with gas pipe and clubs and paraded through town in his underwear by pickets who caught him trying to get into the plant.

Grease In Eye

Musgrove said pickets smeared grease into his one good eye and then wiped it off when he protested. The stocky steel worker chuckled as he recounted his experience. He displayed a pair of overalls, ripped from top to bottom by the pickets, and an undershirt with the word "scab" smeared on its front in grease.

Musgrove said he first tried to go to work the night the strike was called but was barred by pickets. Four days later, he said, he went to Niles and waded across swamps with some companions in an effort to enter the plant by the back way. Pickets with flash

BUILD DAMS TO AVERT DAMAGE BY FLOODS HERE—STEPHENSON

Editor's Note: It is almost inevitable that Santa Ana and Orange county today are facing millions of dollars loss through an extremely possible recurrence of the great flood of 1861-62, when rainfall was measured at nearly 50 inches, according to this final installment in a series of four that have appeared in The Register. Terry E. Stephenson, Orange county treasurer, who tells the facts, "Old-timers" will recall it. All youth will be amazed by the startling facts in the chapter.

By TERRY E. STEPHENSON Orange County Treasurer

Floods are as old hereabouts as the land itself. The coastal plain was made by floods. Canyons were cut out by floods. Passing over geological data, the story of floods in this section can be picked up with one of the wet years in the early part of the last century.

AVIATION SHOW TO DRAW CROWD

Sponsoring the first annual aviation show to be held at Eddie Martin's airport, tomorrow, the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce is ready to present airplanes representing an investment of approximately $1,000,000.

According to Dale Decker, general chairman in charge of the show, practically every airplane manufacturer in the west will have the latest model ships on display. Not only will they exhibit their ships but they will give flying demonstrations.

Sleeper Plane Coming

Probably one of the most interesting exhibits will be the newest American Airline Douglas DST sleeper plane, brought down here by Pilot Johnny Martin, Santa Ana man flying for American Airlines, and Bart Cox, former Santa Ana high school student and athlete, who is operations manager for the line. Accompanying Martin, as chief pilot, and Cox will be Fred Pullen and Carl Anderson, executives of the American Airlines and a stewardess, who will act as hostesses on the giant plane.

One thousand courtesy cards have been issued residents of Orange county, entitling them to go aboard the ship and inspect the luxurious accommodations provided for air travelers.

Arrowbile Promised

Decker said today that he received a definite promise this morning that Waldo Waterman, inventor and manufacturer of the Waterman Arrowbile, combination automobile and airplane that he will have one of his ships at the airport. This ship is powered with a Studebaker motor. The wings are detachable, making it possible to turn the airplane into an automobile that attains a road speed of 70 miles per hour.

DEATH CALLS LINN L. SHAW S. A. PIONEER

Linn L. Shaw, 70, early-day Santa Ana journalist and former political leader, today joined the pioneers who have marched on.

Death ended a career that had been carved deep into local history. A resident of the city for 51 years, Shaw was in turn editor, publisher, postmaster and realtor, his activities closely allied with the progress of the community.

Civic Leader Here

He succumbed at 4 a. m. today at his home, 1118 South Ross street, after an extended illness, and for the third time within a fortnight, Santa Ana mourned the passing of a pioneer. His death closely followed those of Dr. Charles D. Ball and Mrs. Lovina Gustlin, who, like Linn L. Shaw, had been leaders in local affairs for half a century.

Linn Shaw, born at Marshalltown, Iowa, July 29, 1866, was just out of his teens when he settled in Santa Ana, in December, 1886. He had learned the printing trade at 14 and practiced it in Iowa and South Dakota towns, including Plankinton, Mitchell and Sioux Falls, until drawn westward by a California boom. After working on Los Angeles papers a few weeks, he came to Santa Ana and clerked in the music store of A. L. Pellegrini.

Worked on Blade

But newspaper work drew him again, and he got a place with the Pacific Weekly Blade. When A. J. Waterhouse started the Daily Blade the following year, Linn Shaw became city editor, and held that post until 1893. Next he owned a printing plant, which he later sold, remaining as foreman of it until he acquired a half-interest in the Orange County Herald in 1893, with E. S. Wallace as partner.

They operated this paper 10 years, but in 1903, having been appointed postmaster of Santa Ana in 1902, Shaw left the newspaper business, and the Herald was absorbed by The Blade.

Postmaster Three Terms

Shaw was postmaster for three terms, until in 1913 a change in national administration brought Charles D. Overshiner to the postmaster's office.

COUNTY SUED OVER AMBULANCE CRASH

First legal reaction to the tragedy of June 10 at First street and Vintana road, where a county hospital ambulance crashed against an automobile and came into a filling station, resulting in a fire that destroyed the ambulance and its crew of two men, came today in the form of a $15,921.39 damage suit against the county.

Charles C. Wilson, occupant of the car struck by the ambulance when the county car sped through a boulevard stop, is plaintiff in the damage suit, represented by Attorneys Hutten, Mize and Kroese. Wilson asks $15,000 for head and back injuries, and $921.39 for medical and hospital care, loss of earnings and destruction of personal property. He is still receiving hospital care, he states.

Earl Biggs, 32, driver, and Ray Riley, 27, orderly, crew of the ambulance, were burned to death in the flaming wreckage.

NAME MANAGERS OF COUNTRY CLUB

Approval of the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Miller as new managers of the Country club by the board of directors was announced today by Riley Huber, club treasurer and chairman of the house committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who succeeded Mr. and Mrs. Ward Akeley, formerly were with the Long Beach Country club. Because of their 20 years experience in the club managing and catering business, Mr. and Mrs. Miller were chosen over nearly a dozen applicants for the position.

Garage Fire Is Blamed On Burglar

A fire which may have been of incendiary origin, started by a burglar to cover up his crime, destroyed approximately $2000 worth of property late last night at the G. L. Hosmer A-1 service garage, 501 West Fifth street, it was revealed by Fire Marshal Elmer Gates today.

Gates is conducting an investigation today. Damage to the building, which belongs to E. B. Sprague of the First National bank, was estimated at approximately $1000.

Hosmer said he had left $65 cash in the building. No trace of it was found when an inspection was made.

STEEL STRIKE POSITION TOLD

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(UP)—White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said today that President Roosevelt had no legal authority to act upon Mayor Daniel H. Shields' request that he end "this reign of terror" in strike-ridden Johnstown, Pa., because he has had no request for intervention from Gov. George Earle of Pennsylvania.

Position Outlined

Emphasizing that he was not speaking for the president, Early unofficially outlined the government's position on Shields' telegram as follows: "The government cannot use force to prevent disturbances until requested by a governor of a state, or if the legislature is in session, by the legislature."

The governor of Pennsylvania has not made any request. Johnstown is a city in Pennsylvania. The governor of Ohio asked the president for action and got it.

"The governor of Pennsylvania has not made any request. Johnstown is a city in Pennsylvania. The governor of Ohio asked the president for action and got it."

Cites Situation

"What can we do?" Early asked. "If troops moved into Johnstown without legal requirements being met, then what if Chicago and the rest of the country asked for troops?"

"People complain that things are done unconstitutionally, and then they want you to do unconstitutional things without regard to the law of the land."

"It is a case of the shoe pinching the other foot. These seem to be the facts. I am not speaking for the president."

PENN GETS POST WITH TITLE FIRM

Councilman William Penn, dismissed from his position as head of the property division of the County Welfare department in a political move recently, will take the place of the veteran escrow officer, Frank Andrews of the Orange County Title company. Fifth and Main streets, it was revealed today.

Andrews, who has been with the company for many years, is retiring from his office July 1, and at that time, Councilman Penn will assume his new duties, according to President Harvey A. Gardner of the title company today.

Following Penn's dismissal from the welfare office, many speculated what he would do and whether he would resign his position as a member of the city council. Today, he said there would be no change in his city position and the council would remain intact.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(UP)—Helen Hicks, professional golfer from New York, defeated Beatrice Barrett, Minneapolis, 6 and 5, in their 36 hole final match to capture the Western Women's open golf championship at the Beverly Country club today. The match ended on the 13th green when Miss Hicks birdied.

Open Union Services In City Sunday

The annual series of Sunday evening union church services will be inaugurated for 1937 by downtown churches of the city tomorrow, the initial assembly being scheduled at the First M. E. church, Sixth and Spurgeon streets.

Dr. Roland J. Dye of the United Missionary boards, Indianapolis, Indiana, will be tomorrow's speaker, substituting for the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church.

While all of the churches will not be ready to participate in the first union service, since some have individual programs to be carried out in their own congregations, all are supporting the union program, it is announced.

The summer schedule of Sunday evening union services and the subjects arranged are as follows:

June 20, "The Church and Her Progress," Dr. Roy J. Dye, at First M. E. church.

June 27, "The Inaugural Day of the Church," the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, at the First Congregational church.

BARRIE DIES OF PNEUMONIA

LONDON, June 19.—(UP)—Sir James Matthew Barrie, creator of Peter Pan and other characters who won the hearts of the world, died of bronchial pneumonia in a nursing home today at the age of 77.

The famous author and dramatist, who saw life through the eyes of a child, lived almost as a recluse in his declining years. Although he retired from the public gaze, his memory was still green in the minds of the generation which laughed and cried over Peter Pan, "The Little Minister," "Dear Brutus," and other tender, understanding portrayals.

Besides members of the family, those at the bedside in Barrie's dying moments were Peter and Nicholas Davies, brothers whom Barrie adopted after Peter Davies as a child inspired him to write Peter Pan.

Unlike the characters he inspired, Peter "grew up" and now is in middle age.

Announcement of Barrie's death was made at 1:37 p. m., but the time of death was not specified. It was announced that he had been unconscious since before 8 a. m.

BILBAO IS CAPTURED BY REBEL ARMY

DERIO, OUTSIDE BILBOA, June 19.—(UP)—The besieging nationalists captured Bilbao today. As they entered the Basque capital the demoralized defenders fled. The first nationalist detachment entered the city at 3 p. m.

Basques Retreat

Radio stations at Victoria and San Sebastian confirmed the news that troops had entered Bilbao. They said the attackers did not meet Basque resistance in the old quarter of the city on the right bank of the Nervion river. That section includes the main hotel, the banking and shopping quarters, as well as a gas plant and the Bank of Spain.

There was no street fighting as the nationalists advanced through the narrow streets. But the Basques in the new quarter of the city on the opposite river bank, fired into the old section.

The Bank of Spain vaults were said to have been emptied 10 days ago and deposits were shipped to France.

The nationalist mission at St. Jean de Luz announced that 1500 troops, upon entering Bilbao, freed 1500 hostages from Larranaga prison.

Italians Storm City

A mixed brigade of Italian and Spanish troops, known as the "black arrows," poured downhill from the heights of Begonia and stormed into the city. The brigade occupied the gas plant, several abattoirs and municipal buildings. It was reported the troops continued into the center of the city which appeared deserted.

The sixth brigade of the rebel forces reached two outlying Bilbao railroad stations—Las Arenas and Lezama—lying at the foot of a mountain topped by a basilica which escaped damage.

The nationalist radio stations at Durango announced at 6 p. m. that "Bilbao has been captured."

SUB FIRE S ON NAZI CRUISER

BERLIN, June 19.—(UP)—A Spanish loyalist submarine fired three torpedoes at the crack German cruiser Leipzig off Oran, Algeria, June 15, an official communique said today. The cruiser was not hit.

It was announced that the submarine was a Spanish loyalist one. The ship was attacked a second time at 3:30 p. m., yesterday, it was asserted.

After a series of urgent conferences among leaders of the Nazi government it was announced that Germany would ask that the neutrality control powers—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—meet under the revised control agreement, to undertake pertinent measures.

"The German government, at any rate, is not willing to look on kindly at the practice shooting by Spanish bolshevik U-boat pirates into the end they may even score a hit," said the communique sarcastically.

When the German battleship Deutschland was bombed by airplanes in the Balearic Islands recently, Fuehrer Hitler sent a fleet to bombard Almeria and kill some 20 persons.

Hitler called into conference Marshall Werner von Blomberg, war minister; Admiral Erich Raeder, commander in chief of the navy, and Baron Constantin von Neurath, foreign minister.

Hitler instructed Joachim von Ribbentrop, ambassador at London, to inform other neutrality control powers, of the incident so that a meeting could be called to consider it. Under the new agreement the meeting would be called at once to decide measures to be taken.

SOVIET FLIERS NEARING CANADA

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(UP)—After more than nine hours of silence, three Russian airmen attempting a spectacular 6250 mile nonstop flight from Moscow over the North Pole to San Francisco, reported they were safe.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(UP)—Three Russian airmen on an attempted record-breaking 6250 mile nonstop flight over the North Pole from Moscow to San Francisco flew past Prince Patrick island in the Arctic ocean at 4 a. m. p. s. t. today, headed for northern Canada and stormy weather.

Prince Patrick island is approximately 800 miles south of the North Pole, directly on the 133d meridian. This indicated the fliers were exactly on their course, as their route was over the 133d meridian. The island is due north of Banks Land, about midway between Alaska and Hudson's Bay.

The Royal Canadian signal corps announced at Edmonton that its radio station at Fort Smith, Northwest Territory, heard from the fliers at 4 a. m.

"Everything O. K., traveling 200 kilometers," a message from the plane said.

The United States army signal corps radio station at Seattle notified the war department in Washington at 9:07 a. m. P.S.T., it had contacted the plane and was standing by for further communication. Position of the plane was not given.

Gregory Gokhaman, Soviet consul general in San Francisco, received reports of difficult weather along the route the airmen must follow. He was optimistic, however, the plane would make it, and arrive at Oakland airport, across the bay from San Francisco sometime Sunday.

The three airmen were Valeri Chkalov, 35, one of Soviet Russia's leading aviators, who formerly was a fireman on a Volga boat; George Baidukov, 30, a former Omsk railway repair worker in Siberia, and Alexander Belakov, 40, former teacher on a Moscow area collective farm.

After a strike of class "A" hotels had spread to two more hosteleries, the Olympic and Chancellor, bringing the total to 18, the hotel operators' policy committee ordered managers of 42 class "B" hotels to prepare for a voluntary close-up.

Following a night-long meeting, the operators announced early today the order had been held in abeyance pending a conference with union officials.

S. F. DOCK WORKERS READY TO TRANSFER SNITE TO PULLMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(UP)—Six husky longshoremen, their rough working clothes covered by white medical coats, waited today to transfer Frederick B. Snite, jr., from the "iron lung" in which he traveled the Pacific ocean to a specially-constructed Pullman coach, which will speed him home to Chicago.

As the liner bearing Snite from the Orient, where he was stricken two years ago by an attack of infantile paralysis, hove to the longshoremen waited nervously to move the former Notre Dame athlete. On the skill of their hands, which normally grasp steel "claws" in handling heavy waterfront cargo, rested the hope of doctors that the transfer could be made without mishap.

It will take three minutes. A single mistake might end the life of doctors have labored 14 months to

His first view of America was a second hand one for by means of a specially-arranged mirror on the iron respirator, in which he has "lived" since the attack struck him, he saw the reflection of the bridge before the mainland came into his life.

If his trip to Chicago is completed successfully physicians hope to link a live nerve to the paralyzed respiratory nerve in one of the most delicate operations ever performed.

GOV. EARLE ACTS TO HALT STEEL RIOTS

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(UP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers' union, as well as chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, today called off a demonstration of 40,000 miners scheduled to be held tomorrow at Johnstown, Pa.

CLEVELAND, June 19.—(UP)—The federal steel mediation board began a determined effort to end the steel strike today after martial law was declared in one Pennsylvania strike center and similar stern action was hinted in Ohio.

The declaration of martial law at Johnstown, Pa., came almost simultaneously with the start of preliminary conferences here among members of the mediation board, headed by Charles P. Taft and seeking to settle the conflict over whether four big independent companies shall sign union contracts.

Martial law was declared in a city of 70,000 people, after President Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem Steel corporation refused a request by Gov. George H. Earle to close the corporation's Cambria plant, scene of a strike called by the Steel Workers' organizing committee.

Seven hundred state policemen and highway patrolmen were ordered to close operations at the plant, estimated at approximately 70 per cent despite the week old strike. The governor acted on the plea of Sheriff Michael Boyle that local authorities would be unable to cope with the situation, made more serious by an "indignation" meeting called for tomorrow, at which more than 40,000 coal miners are expected to join steel workers in protesting the company's refusal to sign a union contract.

Mayor Daniel J. Shields of Johnstown, who has favored "back to work" marches, declared that if the plant here is closed, "it will be a monumental asinine act on the part of Governor Earle."

"In Harrisburg, Governor Earle said that if Shields 'refused to cooperate with the state police, the Johnstown city police will cease to function.'"

At the same time, Ohio national guard headquarters observers closely watched developments in Youngstown and Canton, where back to work marches against picket lines were scheduled for Sunday and Monday.

At Canton new outbreaks of violence were reported and angry wives of non-strikers met at a rally to demand reopening of the mills in defiance of the picket.

MORE S. F. HOTELS PREPARE TO CLOSE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(UP)—A general shutdown of San Francisco's 60 largest hotels was threatened today.

After a strike of class "A" hotels had spread to two more hosteleries, the Olympic and Chancellor, bringing the total to 18, the hotel operators' policy committee ordered managers of 42 class "B" hotels to prepare for a voluntary close-up.

Following a night-long meeting, the operators announced early today the order had been held in abeyance pending a conference with union officials.

THREE BANDITS ARE SENTENCED BY JUDGE ALLEN

Three youthful bandits, Kenneth Cairnes, 23, William McInnes, 19, and Jim Rhodes, 19, will have ample time to meditate on the profit-and-loss angles of crime, as a result of being sentenced late yesterday by Superior Judge James L. Allen for the robbery of R. L. Talley, Santa Ana.

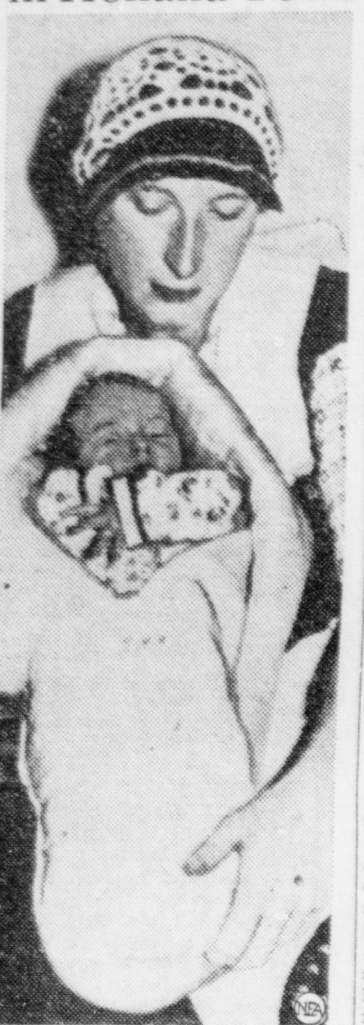

Cairnes will make his second trip to San Quentin, under sentence of five years to life for first-degree robbery, and one to ten years for grand theft of Talley's automobile. The sentences will run concurrently.

Two Years Each
McInnes, who waited the gun in the holdup of Talley May 19 at Costa Mesa, was sentenced to two years on each count, to be served in the Preston School of Industry at Lone. His sentences also ran concurrently.

Rhodes, who received the same sentences that were given McInnes, must, however, serve them consecutively, thus faces a four-year term. He has been at Lone before.

The three youths had started to hitch-hike to Costa Mesa from Santa Ana, with the intent of breaking into a Costa Mesa market, but when Talley gave them a ride they decided to rob him. They took $2.80 in cash from Talley and then stole his automobile, leaving him afoot. They were apprehended at Fallbrook.

'Packing' a Baby in Holland Town

Lost in antiquity is the origin of the custom which this Spankenburg, Holland, mother is following as she "bundles" her baby up like a mummy on the 10th day after its birth. Frowned on by the village doctor, the custom of "packing the baby" continues with each birth—although no one knows why.

STEPHENSON TELLS HOW TO AVERT FLOODS

cho on the east side of the Santa Ana river. One of their adobes was built upon the river bank. This flood of 1810-11 took it away. Since one adobe was then perhaps 10 or 20 per cent of all the adobes between the foothills and the sea, its loss may have been keenly felt.

Four winters later, the Los Angeles river left its banks and cut a new channel through the pueblo along Alameda street. In those days that was a severe blow indeed.

One of the greatest floods recorded in the Southland came in 1825. That year, it is generally believed, the Santa Ana changed its outlet from Alamitos Bay to Newport Bay. Below Los Angeles, channels were cut to the ocean with the result that a great swamp into which flood waters generally wasted themselves was drained.

Like Island Sea
There was a flood in 1832, another in 1842, and still another in 1850. By that time Sacramento and a number of mining towns were quite populous. Since flood damage becomes possible and certainly noticeable when settlements are established in vulnerable spots, seasons of extreme rainfall created havoc in 1850 in Northern California. The valley of the Sacramento was like an inland sea.

Then came the wet year 1852-53, in which considerable damage was done in the lower half of the state but far more in the mines up north. That year, however, was most remarkable for the data that was kept at old Fort Miller on the San Joaquin river in Fresno county. By that time, it seems, Californians here and there were measuring rainfall. At Fort Miller, believe it or not, that season during the months of January and February 46 inches of rain fell.

Torrents Sweep Area
December 3, 4, and 5, 1859, goes down in the history of the Los Angeles section, which at that time included all of Orange county, as the days of a most remarkable storm. Rain was ushered in by a terrific southeast wind, and it came in torrents. In twenty-four, twelve inches of rain fell. No wonder the rivers overflowed their banks, streams went rampaging across country, and great areas were covered with silt and debris and sand. Heavy deposits of sand, it might be mentioned in passing, sometimes turn rich land into near-waste land.

Just as the early '60s furnished California with its champion dry year, just so did those years give the southern part of the state its greatest rainfall. Nearly 50 inches of rain fell in 1861-62. That was more than twice the rainfall of this past season, and this was one of the wettest years Orange county has had in half a century.

Anaheim Under Water
"It began raining on Dec. 24, 1861, says an account, and continued for 30 days with but two slight interruptions. The Santa Ana river for a time rivaled the 'Father of Waters' in magnitude. In the town of Anaheim, four miles from the river, the water ran four feet deep and spread in an unbroken sheet to the Coyote Hills three miles beyond." One settler, stepping from his porch in the dark, was caught in the waters and was drowned.

Excepting San Juan Capistrano, at that time, Anaheim was the only village in what is now Orange county. Without doubt, though the matter then was of small consequence, the plains were a lake from Santa Ana to the sea, from near Irvine to near Long Beach. Santa Ana and Placita, settlements on the Santa Ana river, San Bernardino county, were wiped out of existence—not merely damaged, but wiped out.

1864 Is "Standard"
It was wet in 1867-68, and that year the San Gabriel divided into two rivers, the new river being the one that today lies immediately west of Whittier. Hundreds of acres of good land over night were changed into riverbed, and have never grown a pound of produce from that day to this.

Old-timers of the Santa Ana valley measure all wet years by the spring of 1864. Tales of that flood have been told and re-told. It seems unnecessary to repeat them here. However, here are a few graphic facts:

With dense winds and hardly any rain, it looked like a drought year. In January it began to rain. It rained and little rains, two-inch rains, four-inch rains and half-inch rains. For 40 days and nights, it seemed, it rained. Before May was gone, the total reached 35 inches by some measurements, 32 by others. Lowland ranches were under water for months.

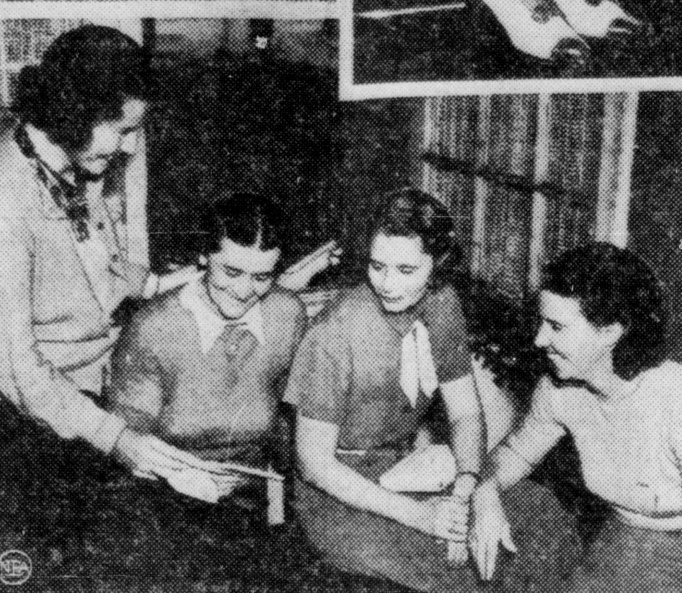

Fifty Houses Go
There is proof on the Harvey ranch on Bristol street today to show that more than two feet of silt was deposited. Other ranches in the path of angry waters were cut with channels and buried in white sand. Fifty houses were washed away in Los Angeles, and many orchards were ruined.

There was no fixed banks for the lower river in those days. It was memories of that 1864 flood that caused H. Clay Kellogg, engineer, to recommend to the Newport Protection District when that district established a channel for the river nearly 30 years ago, that the channel be fully three times the width that was finally settled upon.

Greatest Damage
Following 1864 came other wet years, notably February, 1886, and the winter of 1889-90, but it remained for 1916 to establish itself as the most damaging flood year this county has experienced up to this date. The reason it stands out as the most damaging is because there was more in the flood—more area was damaged than was the case in 1864. The total rainfall for the 1915-16 season was between 18 and 19 inches, not an extraordinary amount, but most of it came within a few days.

2 WOMEN HURT IN CAR CRASH

Mrs. Mary Alice Ward, 47, of Louisville, Ohio, and Miss Fay Moreland, Shreve, Ohio, were taken to Santa Ana Valley hospital today with severe injuries resulting from an accident on 101 highway this morning, when their car and a truck collided as they drove toward Santa Ana. Four others in the car escaped injury, reports said.

Mrs. Ward is suffering from a fractured shoulder and Miss Moreland, from possible fracture of the pelvis.

In the United States has been featured in national magazines and news reels ever since its approval by the United States Department of commerce.

Officials of the chamber of commerce have named Oliver Lindemeyer, LeRoy Burns, Dolph Kelsey and John Lutz as members of a host committee that will greet the pilots of all airplanes as they land at the airport. They will be assisted by the Misses Agnes Brady, Virginia Scott and Jane King, of the Santa Ana Junior college and the Misses Lolita Mead and Muriel Matzen of the chamber of commerce as hostesses.

Dinner For Pilots
Approximately 1500 licensed pilots of Southern California will be guests of the chamber of commerce at a barbecue dinner to be served on the flying field at 12:30.

During the dinner, Rex Kennedy, president of the Santa Ana Chamber of commerce, will introduce Mayor Fred Rowland, who will deliver the address of welcome. Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors; Theodore Robbins, representing Newport Beach and members of the Santa Ana city council and county board of supervisors. The dinner, prepared by Eddie Lane, will be under direction of W. F. Cuddy of the chamber of commerce.

Every precaution will be taken to prevent accidents at the airport and Floyd Martin, airport manager, has been named traffic director for the field. From a field tower he will regulate the take-offs and landings of airplanes coming into the field, during demonstrations and for the stunting.

The field will be patrolled by county officers, members of the California National Guard and Boy Scouts, under direction of Constable Jesse Elliott.

Carl Squires, vice president of the Lockheed company, sent word yesterday that a Lockheed 12, airplane owned by the Lang Transportation company and considered to be one of the most luxurious privately owned airplanes in the United States, also will be on exhibition at the airport. This ship will be piloted by E. C. McLeod.

Exhibitions Slated
During the afternoon fliers from the army, navy and marine corps aviation sections will give an exhibition of stunt flying and Paul Mantz, technical advisor to Amelia Earhart, will give an aerial exhibition. Waterman also will demonstrate his Arrowbile in the air and on the ground.

Starting at 5 p. m. model airplane builders of Southern California will stage a show under direction of Bob Gerwing of Santa Ana. During the show models that won the National competition in Los Angeles several weeks ago will be shown and put in the air.

Gerwing said today that many of the models, some of them motor powered, were constructed by pilots, aviation experts and airplane designers, and cost hundreds of dollars to complete. All models will be flown during the one-hour show.

Decker said today that adequate parking arrangements will be offered visitors to the airport and said that the committee expects more than 15,000 people to attend the show.

TROOPS SENT TO JOHNSTOWN

Strike pickets at Canton reported to county officials that for the second successive night they had been fired on by railroad guards. The sheriff's office reported it was investigating charges that snipers fired on the railroad police.

Series of Clashes
The charges and counter charges followed a series of clashes between non-strikers and strikers which seven back-to-work leaders were "abducted" and then released by union groups and several were hurt in fist fights.

The proposed attempt to break the Canton picket lines was tentatively scheduled for Sunday by John G. Stewart, spokesman for a back to work committee.

At Youngstown, national guard observers reported back to their Columbus headquarters that a march on the picket lines was scheduled to begin at 2 a. m. Monday.

Edward McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and third member of the board joined Taft and Lloyd Garrison in their conference rooms.

Weekly Citrus Review

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—(UP)—The citrus season on California valencias was lower large sizes, but the decline was compensated for by a shift to the smaller sizes. Shipments are being reduced next week as they will arrive too late to supply the demand for the smaller sizes. Total citrus shipments are the lowest so far in this season due to the reduction in movement of oranges and grapefruit from Florida.

Competition from strawberries has been lessened by lighter shipments but heavy supplies of cantaloupes are now arriving in the market. A good demand prevails for grapefruit that are now going forward.

F.O.B. California quotations on 200 valencias here are as follows: $5.40 to $5.50 for 1934 and larger; $5 to $5.25 for 1935; $4.50 to $4.65 for 1936; 200s and 210s; $4.15 to $4.25; 22s; $4 to $4.15; 23s; $3.40 to $3.50; 24s; $3.15 to $3.25; 25s.

The prorate on valencias for next week Southern California districts is 80c cars interstate and 100c cars intrastate.

Lemons: With a continuation of cool, rainy weather, the market on California lemons showed an easier tendency.

Available for sale within the next 30 days in United States ports approximately 20 cars of foreign lemons for the corresponding period in 1936 there were 35 cars; 1935, 24 cars; 1934, 195 cars and 1933, 65 cars.

lights discovered them and several shots were fired.

His captors, Musgrove said, brought him to a tree, tied his arms and threatened to hang him.

Beaten by Pickets
Finally, when he had been smeared with grease, Musgrove said, he was marched toward town in his shoes and underwear while the pickets beat him.

R. H. Weaver, Republic Steel company employee at Warren, O., told the committee that Republic sought to mail packages to workers within picketed plants because of difficulties of getting food and clothing to them by other means.

Sen. H. Styles Bridges read into the record a letter signed by the Superintendent of Mails of the Youngstown, O., post office, stating that unusual mail, such as food and clothing was not being delivered to the Republic steel plants because "we cannot get past a picket line with mail of this kind."

Forty-one students have registered for Santa Ana Junior college's summer session, figures showed today. Classes will convene Monday.

Enrollment for the various courses has been increasing daily, according to George B. Holmes, dean of the summer session. Representatives from several Orange county cities have registered.

Regular junior college and high school courses are being offered this summer. All of the courses are fully accredited by the universities.

The session will last from Monday to Friday, July 30. Instructors will be the regular jaysee faculty and several Santa Ana high school teachers.

A total of 32 college courses and 19 high school courses are being given. Classes will be held in the morning, allowing the rest of the day free.

REVEAL PLANS FOR POLICING AT AIR SHOW

Elaborate plans for policing the Martin airport's flying field during tomorrow's big air show, to safeguard both the crowds and the ships, were announced today by Constable Jesse L. Elliott, of Santa Ana, chairman of the policing arrangements for the Santa Ana chamber of commerce.

Elliott announced that 150 national guardsmen, of the Third battalion, under command of Major Donald L. Winans, of Anaheim, and company officers, will patrol the boundaries of the field, to keep it free of spectators, which is one of the most strict rules to be enforced at the meet tomorrow, Elliott said.

The chamber of commerce has been required to definitely guarantee exhibitors of planes participating in the meet that the crowds will be kept out of the way of the planes and also not allowed to approach them on the field.

Officers to Assist
The sheriff's office, Santa Ana police department and California highway patrol will send officers to assist the national guardsmen in handling the crowds, Elliott announced. Peace officers from other sections of the county also will be on hand.

In addition there will be at least three troops of Boy Scouts at the field, and Elliott announced that any Boy Scout appearing in full uniform would be recognized and registered for duty. Scouts are instructed to report and register at the main booth.

Provide Ambulance
For emergency service, Brown and Wagner, of Santa Ana, and his Orange County Ambulance Service, will provide ambulances at the field. State Forest Ranger Joe Scherman, of Orange, has arranged to send one of the big state fire trucks to the meet, for possible emergencies.

Special parking arrangements have been made, to assure that any car can enter or leave the airport parking areas without delay or obstruction. Elliott issued warning against motorists pulling their cars off the road, on either Newport boulevard or Lane avenue, to park in the adjacent barley fields. These fields, now ready to harvest, are extremely dry and create dangerous fire hazard, Elliott pointed out.

Floyd Martin will be in charge of the flying field, and no plane may arrive or leave except on signal from Martin.

TABOR HEARING IS POSTPONED AGAIN

Continued illness of the defendant and absence of the judge resulted yesterday in another postponement of E. R. Tabor's probation hearing, in connection with his conviction of arson.

In the absence of Judge G. K. Scovel, who recently was called to Nebraska by the death of his father, Judge H. C. Ames ordered another postponement of the hearing which previously had been delayed by Tabor's illness.

Tabor, found guilty in connection with the burning of his apartment house at Huntington Beach in 1932, has suffered two strokes of apoplexy since his prosecution started.

MERRIAM MAY SIGN OIL BILL

statewide and conforms to Attorney General's opinion."

The Olson bill was passed by the legislature, signed by the governor and became immediately effective several weeks prior to legislative adjournment by virtue of an emergency clause.

If the governor signs the O'Donnell bill, it would supersede the Olson measure. The Welsh bill was expected to die by pocket veto.

$50,000 Bond Required
The O'Donnell bill would permit drilling from littoral lands or directly from piers and islands, thereby allowing a greater number of bidders to participate, and that first wells to be drilled under the act would be to offset wells now draining the state-owned undersea pool. It would require a $50,000 performance bond and calls for the highest royalty for the state of any of the measures.

O'Donnell proposed state royalties of 30, 40 and 50 per cent. The measure would allow the state to drill its own wells if bids proved unsatisfactory.

BUDGE WINS LONDON GRASS COURT TITLE

LONDON, June 19.—(UP)—Don Budge, Oakland, Calif., youngster who is the bulwark of the United States Davis cup team, scored a smashing 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, England's No. 1 player, to win the London Grass Court championship today.

After dropping the first game on service Budge blasted Austin off the court with the severity and accuracy of his game. He reeled off three love games and lost only 10 points during the entire set.

Austin made a somewhat braver showing in the second set, forcing three games to deuce, but still was unable to cope with Budge's stinging services and running drives mixed with drop shots and volleys. At the end of the match Austin was completely played out and was unable to win a point in the final game.

Dorothy Andrus, New York, and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, France, won the women's double title by defeating the English pair, Mary Hardwick and Ermtrude Harvey, 6-6, 6-1.

FIRECRACKERS CAUSE WORRY

It was firecracker day in Santa Ana yesterday, police decided after answering nine complaints of citizens. No arrests were made.

H. T. Brown, Long Beach, complained some boys hurled torpedoes at him, striking him in the face, endangering his life. Boys were shooting firecrackers in the 120-block, South Ross, to disturbance of neighbors; boys were doing the same thing at Third and Bristol.

Other centers of "Fourth of July activity" included 1300-block, South Main; Willard school playground; 900-block, South Van Ness; 1300-block, West Second, and 500-block, North Birch. In each instance, the boys had fled or were present and agreed to cease firing. Half a dozen officers made the checks but it remained for Detective Sergeant Hunter Leach to handle a majority of the complaints.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

You know that some force stronger than old habits have changed a man when you see one who has been hot-tempered, arrogant, uncharitable and religious attaining mastery over himself and showing consideration toward others and reverence for God.

You conclude that something which merits explanation has taken place within the mind and soul of a foolish undisciplined girl when she is gradually transformed into a wonderful woman and brings up her children with rare success.

The answer is that, on whatever road an individual finds God, He is competent to uplift, strengthen and beautify the capacity latent within that soul. He will do all things for you too, if you bring your broken heart to His healing touch.

AMES EXHORTS LOCAL GROUP TO HALT "POWER"

BY MALCOLM BOSTWICK

Any member of the judiciary who would agree to help "pack" the United States Supreme Court by accepting an appointment to the bench and supporting the President's legislation, would not be a fit person to occupy such an honored place in the leadership of American ideals, E. Neal Ames, Los Angeles attorney, told members of the Orange county and Santa Ana divisions of the League for Supreme Court Independence last night.

Ames spoke at a dinner meeting attended by more than 30 representatives of service clubs and other organizations, at Daniger's. He was acclaimed a worthy substitute for Jacob D. Allen, scheduled speaker from Washington, D. C. Allen, suffering from injuries received in a recent car crash near Juan Capistrano, had a relapse yesterday and was confined at a Hollywood hospital.

Political Power

"Whenever a President asks that the size of the Supreme Court be increased—no matter what party he belongs to at the time—he always seeks political power," said Ames.

"There was one exception which followed increase in the court's business to point where more judges were needed to handle it. The sole reason for a present change in size, addition of six men, is—because the President wants it."

Ames, who was accompanied here by Mrs. Ames, outlined history of our government. He said there are but two theories of government—the theory that the state is supreme and the people, puppets, and the theory that the individual is supreme and the government but a tool by which the individual's wishes may be carried out successfully.

Warns of Dictatorship

The former is dictatorship, the latter our form of government. "Our form of government is entirely different from any other on earth today," said the speaker.

"We actually are 48 sovereign nations, absolute except that we voluntarily surrender certain authority to the federal government for sake of convenience. We have seen many governments change forms and many, by peaceful revolution as, for example, in Italy, where Mussolini has taken the liberty of a people given it by Garibaldi."

The speaker warned that the same dictatorship would come to the United States through peaceful, gradual revolution. He said the constitution was created in an effort to preserve a freedom for Americans and their posterity. It was created to protect against encroachment of personal rights, and the legislative, executive and judicial form was established as a check-and-balance to maintain a nation's equilibrium politically.

"The question to answer is not, 'Shall the President have a liberal Supreme Court?' but 'Shall the President have a subservient Supreme Court which will bow to his will?'"

George Raymer, active in the local unit of the league, and Jules Markel, Santa Ana division chairman, distributed booklets of pledge sheets and dinner guests agreed to circulate them to obtain additional county-wide support of the league. No definite date for a mass meeting at one of the schools here, was set. The date probably will be set in 10 days or two weeks.

Suggestion of Holmes Bishop, prominent Orange rancher, that a speaker's bureau be formed to present the Supreme Court story to various clubs will be considered. Judge Ben Tarver is the chairman of the Orange county league unit.

Continued Opposition

Ames, born in Santa Ana, urged that our Congressmen would "walk the chalk-line" in opposing the Supreme Court "packing" if the people will voice their opinions to them. "We are going to be forced to keep right on opposing this proposed packing of the court—and we will keep on," Ames said.

"The league is growing rapidly throughout the nation."

Other points made by Ames are: "The records show, that there were only three, five to four decisions. One of them held that the Municipal Bankruptcy act and the Railway Retirement act were unconstitutional."

"There were three, six-to-three decisions holding the Agricultural Adjustment act and the Guffey Coal Control act, and the Security Exchange act unconstitutional. This action was a two-thirds action by the court."

Liberal Members

"There was an eight-to-one decision declaring the Tennessee Valley authority constitutional and an eight-to-one decision holding the Oil Control legislation unconstitutional."

"The Supreme Court by a unanimous vote declared the National Recovery act, the Economy act, and the Farm Moratorium, the Home Owner's Loan act and the Humphrey case all unconstitutional."

"It can be said that even the most liberal members of the bench—Cardozo, Brandeis and Stone have joined with the other members of the Supreme Court in declaring New Deal legislation unconstitutional."

"There has been considerable discussion in regard to the increase in size of the Supreme Court. The records show that in 1880 the average age of the Justices of the Supreme Court was 66 years. In 1890, 63 years; in 1900, 66 years; in 1910, 63 years; in 1920, 67 years; in 1930 to 1932, 67 years; in 1933 to 1936, 68 years, showing an increase of only two years in the

With a number leaving tomorrow for Ventura for the convening of the State convocation several delegates will leave later to participate before the final session scheduled for next Wednesday concludes the Sixteenth Annual Convention of the D. A. V. organization.

Talk and Pictures

Commander Cleary will head the delegates north including Virgil Marr, James C. Wylie, Frank Wolters, Arthur Nielsen, Dean Laub, Earl B. Hawks, Harry D. Edwards, Herbert Thwaite, Jules W. Markel, M. Following the business session the assembled group were enthusiastic in their reception of an illustrated lecture by Professor McGinnity, of the Kerckhoff Laboratory at Corona Del Mar. Professor McGinnity gave an interesting talk on marine life on the Pacific Coast which was greatly enhanced by the showing of moving pictures, depicting the variety of marine life existing in local waters off the coast of Corona Del Mar.

Speeders Face Mitchell: One Is Committed

Rollo Livesey, 1828 West Eighth, was sentenced to serve 30 days in county jail for reckless driving, the sentence suspended on condition Livesey leave Orange county at once. Thomas M. Boney, 515 North Pine, Anaheim, also charged with reckless driving, was fined $100.

Schneider, Monrovia; Floyd Curl, Route 2, Santa Ana, and Frank Harbauer, Route 2, San Bernardino, $5 each; Gene W. Hess, Santa Ana; Charles Wright, Taft, and Paul Beckman, Santa Ana, $5 each, and William Nathanson, Los Angeles, $10.

Four Ticketed

G. L. Kyle was fined $2 for parking adjacent to a fire hydrant. A Santa Ana boy, charged without having operator's license, was certified to juvenile court. Carito Ruiz, Mexicali man, was sent to county jail for 30 days on a vagrancy conviction; meanwhile immigration officers will investigate the case. Ruiz told officers he crawled through an international fence to come here to look for work.

Yesterday, police ticketed four other speeders; 10 illegal parkers, and motorists who failed to have properly addressed license; muffler, and who failed to drive on right side.

William Quigley Signs Race Pact

DEL MAR, Calif., June 18.—(UP)—William Quigley, race director for Bing Crosby's $1,000,000 Del Mar track, today held a five-year contract with Crosby, the longest term ever offered a Pacific coast racing official.

No salary was announced. More than 200 horses are stabled at the track with additional strings scheduled to arrive.

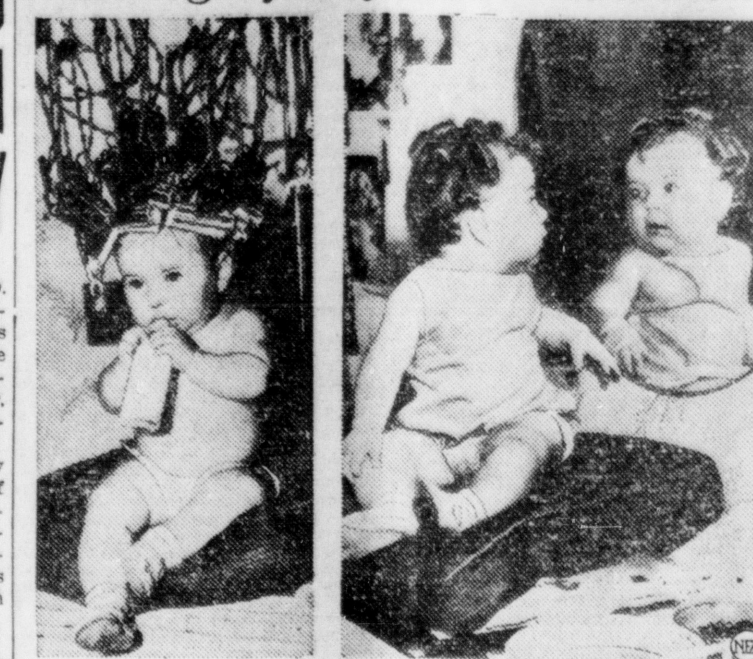

average age of the Court since 1880.

"Ask The People"

"However, in 1880 the Court handled only 429 cases, and in the calendar year just past, the Court handled 910 cases. The average in 1933 was an average of 908 cases per year, twice the volume of business handled 60 years ago."

"If the President is sincere in his desires to secure legislation of a different kind and nature, and recognizes that the Constitution does not give him that power, he should frankly ask the people for that power, and if the people see fit to give it to him, then he has the right to act in accordance therewith, but under the American system of government, has the right by legislation to take from the people the rights which the Courts have reserved to them for the past 150 years?"

We, THE PEOPLE by JAY FRANKLIN

AN OPEN LETTER TO HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.

Dear General Johnson:

Where have you been for the last 20 years that you should take alarm at the skill of the young government lawyers in drafting legislation for the consideration of the congress.

In a recent column you shy like a horse seeing its first automobile and demand: "What the hell's going on here anyway? Slipping a revolution over on the people, the congress, and, as I believe, the President himself, by the adroit use of silence and sickness."

You are too fair a fighter to try throwing dust in our eyes; you just must have forgotten the facts. I don't pretend to be an expert on everything which has happened since 1914 but here are a few highlights which may refresh your memory:

1. In early 1917, a young lieutenant in the Adjutant-General's office wrote a "must" law known as the selective service act, which was passed by congress almost without debate or change. It was cleverly drafted—and so were we—and its author was, I believe, named Hugh S. Johnson.

2. In 1929 and 1930, congress considered the Smoot-Hawley tariff act. There was an eminent Pennsylvania manufacturer named Grundy involved in its preparation and one New England senator put an official of his state manufacturers association on the senate payroll to help write the tariff schedules. There were many other attorneys on the spot, so many that when the bill passed it was abundantly clear that this, too, was a "must" bill and that congress was taking its orders from Wall Street, in defiance of sound economics and national well-being.

3. Partly as a result of this measure, a good many laws had to be passed in a hurry if we were to escape disaster in 1933. Among these were measures setting up the NRA, the AAA (stripping over a revolution?) and so forth. Those laws were not drafted in congress and were barely debated. They were drafted by an executive group which included Rex Tugwell, Ray Moley, Jerry Frank, Donald Richberg, Adolph Berle and—yes—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, himself.

4. I will not mention the NRA, except to remark that its codes had the force of federal legislation and that NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, and not the congress, had a lot to say about what went into those codes and how they were enforced.

5. To keep the constitutional balance even, it is only fair to mention that the briefs filed by Mr. John W. Davis, Mr. James A. Garfield and lesser legal luminaries who induced the supreme court to junk NRA, AAA and other New Deal measures, were also a good example of what smart lawyers can do with the American government, slipping a legal counter-revolution over on the people, the congress and the President himself by the adroit use of sickness and the myth of judicial impartiality.

6. There were elections in 1932, 1934 and 1936.

In other words, General, this sort of thing has been going on for a long, long time. Did it never strike you as peculiar that a congressman who doesn't know how many "m's" there are in "gimme" should suddenly sponsor a 40-page measure for the Regulation of This, That and Tother and For Other Purposes? Did it ever occur to you that even a senate committee lacks the time and knowledge to deliberate on the technical problems of economic and social administration and must take somebody's say-so? Did you ever watch the stream of lawyers, lobbyists and special pleaders who passed through your outer office in the good old Blue Eagle days? Don't you suppose that the same stream percolates just as well on Capitol Hill as at the executive end of Pennsylvania Avenue? How do you suppose the nation's laws are written, anyhow? By a group of senators sitting rapt around a table waiting for tongues of Pente-

Townsend Topics By W. F. Rockwell

(Editor's Note: The comment and opinions of W. F. Rockwell, as appearing in this column are not necessarily those of The Register.)

Last night at Club No. 7 Walter Robb gave a talk that was marked with its loyalty to Dr. Townsend. He referred to Harry Sheppard's letter and disclosed what he declared its weaknesses and inconsistencies.

President Roosevelt could have had the Townsend bill on the floor of the house of congress for discussion and debate long ago if he had simply said the word, Robb declared. "With such opposition from the president, and with congress more afraid of him than of the Townsend army it is impossible to get favorable action till the Townsend movement becomes so strong that congressmen fear it more than they fear the president. So Sheppard's talk about Dr. Townsend hindering congressmen in their efforts to secure action toward enactment of the General Welfare Act is not good logic."

"Sheppard now is virtually asking Townsendites to violate their pledge of allegiance to Dr. Townsend and join a different organization. How can we have confidence in a strange band of men we don't know, and be assured that they will do as well or better than Dr. Townsend? We do have perfect confidence in him in spite of what some call his 'mistakes.' We know he is trustworthy, unselfish, innately honest, and has proven his ability by his masterful accomplishment in making the people everywhere 'pension minded' and has already done more than any other man in all history to establish the principles he advocates as evidenced by the fact that many states have laws more or less helpful to the aged, that did not have such laws before he began his crusade to help humanity to a better social condition."

Mr. Robb proved that this plot to destroy the Townsend movement was started some time before the troublesome events occurred, by the fact that Brinton filed papers in Indiana for a new organization next day after the "twelve Townsend aides" resigned. It would have been impossible to prepare such papers over night. Did these twelve men connive with Brinton?

We would not have the present California law giving $35 per month to the aged, nor would the national Social Security Act be enacted into law if Dr. Townsend had not established such a demand for social justice.

Now, is it fair, is it honest, is it right to turn our backs on old Dr. Townsend merely because he hurt the feelings of some congressmen by saying what he did about the supreme court issue, which to him is more vital than even his plan?

If the Townsend plan fails, this nation is lost.

THE TOWNSEND PLAN WILL SUCCEED.

Business men are now showing more interest than ever in the Townsend movement and want to learn more about it.

The PAYOFF

By RICHARD McCANN
NEA Service Sports Writer

Seems a shame that a college sophomore doesn't know any better than to join the St. Louis Browns. And it's no wonder that Coach Sam Barry of the University of Southern California complained about his star center fielder, John Berardino, leaving the Trojan campus to join up with the tattered-malicious forces of Rogers Hornsby.

Coach Barry, however, complained to the wrong party. He should have gone to the professor of economics, or psychology, or something, and demanded to know why his athletes weren't being taught any better than to know not to join the Browns, of all things.

But, instead Coach Barry sobbed his complaint into the shaggy gray mane of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis. "This," said Coach Barry, "is an out and out violation of the major league agreement not to tamper with college athletes. It is another case where an inexperienced youngster with plenty of prospects passed up an education at the sight of major league money. I have protested vigorously to Judge Landis."

Should Leave Him Be

Well, it's just an opinion, worth as little as 2 cents on some newsstands, but this busybody can't see where it's of Coach Barry's or Judge Landis' business what Center Fielder John Berardino does with his time or talents.

Of course, there is an agreement between the major leagues and the colleges that no team shall lure an athlete away from the campus before he has completed his varsity athletic career. The agreement itself specifies "until he has obtained his college degree," which would make a difference of from one to two years because many college athletes play out their three years of varsity before they finish Chemistry III or English II.

But if the agreement does make any such stipulation the coaches don't enforce it. Which makes the whole thing most insincere. They, as a rule, aren't interested in whether Fullback Joe Spagnoli or Second Baseman U. Targem has his athletic services for the maximum length of time.

There is no reason, to be sure, to suspect that this is the case with Coach Barry and his center fielder, but the fact remains that if John Berardino wants to quit school to associate with the St. Bloey Browns it's his own funeral and nobody else's.

After all, it's quite possible that he needs the money.

Might Burn Out

And then, too, waiting three more years until he has completed his studies, or campus athletics, might prove disastrous to the youth.

You see, many a fine young athlete has been burned to crispy ashes in the hot furnace of college competition—unable when he graduates to capitalize on his wasted ability.

Spurgeon Chandler, the New York Yankee rookie pitcher, was talking about such cases the other day. Chandler played three years of varsity football at the University of Georgia and regrets it. "I'm thankful for the education, of course," Chandler said, "but I should have gone right out and started collecting dividends on my baseball ability without wasting four years. I could still have gone to college in the winter. But as it is, I find myself almost an old guy met breaking into the big leagues."

There doesn't seem to be any sound reason why Chandler couldn't have left school at any time and taken up his chosen profession. And, likewise, John Berardino, and all the other college baseballers.

This is not meant to be an attack on higher education. You should know that the physical education of the physical education courses, which can hardly be classed as higher education in that sense.

Education Doesn't Hurt

Speaking of college athletics, education doesn't seem to affect the baseballers from Duke University. The Durham, N. C., campus is fast becoming a better producer of big league talent than any of the minor leagues.

Just the other day old Jack Combs, the former major league pitcher who is coaching down there, paroled three more Blue Devils to the big show.

Harold Wagner, catcher, and Wayne Ambler, second baseman, were sent to the Philadelphia Athletics, while George Barley, a speed-bait pitcher, was given unto the New York Yankees.

Barley, who won 24 out of 26 college games, and Wagner, a .400 hitter, have been farmed out for the remainder of the season, but Ambler is filling in now and then in the Athletic infield which is getting to look more and more like the Duke Alumni A. C. what with Dean on first, and Werber on third, and Ace Parker having a hand at this and that position.

Education, as said before, hasn't hurt these lads, but if it was crammed down their throats it didn't help them any.

FIREMEN SCHEDULE GAME FOR SUNDAY

Having won three of their four Southern California baseball league games, J. Francis Lemon's undefeated Fullerton firemen will tackle the Bili's Super Service team here tomorrow afternoon.

Clifford Perry, veteran right-hander, and his brother, Earl, a recent arrival from the Ozarks, will do the gunning for the firemen.

The only blemish on the up-country contingent's league record is a 16-inning, 8-to-5 deadlock.

DON KENNEDY BEATS CHAMP IN GOLF PLAY

Don Kennedy, who, as a 16-year-old Santa Ana high school boy, startled the Southern California golfing world by winning the Southern Junior Championship, was today setting a hot pace in the Lakeside invitational tournament.

Defeating last year's Lakeside tournament champion Guy Hanson, 2-and-1 yesterday, Kennedy was scheduled to play Bob Fahy, who was second low in the medal round, this morning. If he wins this match he will play again this afternoon in the semi-finals. The finals are scheduled for tomorrow morning.

DON KENNEDY

After eliminating Frank Tatum Jr. 1 up Thursday, Kennedy's march through Southern California amateurs, has left some of the pre-tournament favorites mumbling to themselves. He posted a 72 in his qualifying round, for one of the best rounds of golf of the 305 original qualifying golfers.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Kennedy, this slender Santa Ana, has picked up considerable knowledge of the game since he became Stanford's No. 1 frosh player.

GEORGE WILSON TO WRESTLE LEO NUMA

George Wilson, the former All-American football star from Washington and recognized as the man who turned in the greatest individual performance in Rose Bowl history, climbs smack into the center of the spotlight here Monday night when he meets Leo (The Lion Man) Numa in the secondary feature wrestling match of the evening. Numa and Wilson are down for the bout preceding the three fall match between Dr. Len Hall and Hans Steinke. Last week Wilson, making his first start in this section, won over the veteran Ad (Bomber) Herman.

Another high spot on the scheduled all-star program is the first appearance of the Scarlet Mister X, unknown grappler, who meets Hans Schultz in the special event. The Scarlet Mister X is reputed to be a former world champion out to regain his crown. After losing the title, it is claimed he was definitely side-tracked.

Mickey Gallagher, pro at the Forest Hills Golf Club, Augusta, Ga., was playing in a mixed foursome, in which partners play alternate strokes, at San Andres, Buenos Aires, when his lady partner completely missed her tee shot on the fourth hole.

Mickey, whose turn it was to play the next shot, stepped on the tee and sank the ball with a six iron for an ace.

On the card the hole was scored as a deuce.

The player need not think of the position and movement of the feet, knees, hips, and shoulders at the same time, in doing so he overlooks the easiest and simplest method of obtaining the correct golf swing.

All he has to do is swing the arm in the proper arc and the rest of the pivot follows naturally.

Great Trainer Picks Louis

"Ya' Gotta String With Youth," Says Monohan

BY HENRY MCLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 19.—The big as ever pulled on a mitten. But fellow with the bald head took a long pull on his beer, bit the end off a two-bit cigar, and said:

"If a pair of fists were all there was to boxing—hell, this Louis would beat Braddock out in three heats. A couple of feints and then a left hook, and church would be out."

The speaker was Walter Monohan, one of the greatest trainers the delightful art of fistfuffs has ever produced. For 40 years he has been shoving champions out into the battle pit, and what he doesn't know about the many art can be engraved on the head of a pin in case you don't know the Lord's Prayer.

He's a fair hand in the ring, himself. He worked as a sparring partner with both Dempsey and Tunney before their first fight in Philadelphia, and was outspoken with his belief that James Joseph would win.

"That Tunney hurt me a lot more than Jack," he explains. "He didn't hit as hard, but every punch he landed was in a spot that counted. I still ache from the right hands that Gene whacked under my heart."

Good With Fists

Walter rates Louis as the finest workman with two fists that he ever laid eyes on. Says he hits harder, is faster, and blocks more deftly than any man since Jim Figg.

"But damn it," Walter will tell you, "there's more to fighting than throwing fists. And that's all Louis can do. Upstairs—in the noggin—he's a blank."

"He can't think. As long as everything runs along smoothly, follows the pattern laid down by his corner, he is as great a fighter as I am."

San Bernardino's Ponies turned back the Fenial Brothers' Westminister Aviators, 5 to 2, at the Perris Hills ball park last night.

Wire, who was the mainstay of the now defunct Colton team, was signed for the game and turned in a good performance, but was given little to work on by the Aviators.

"Lefty" Fowler held the Aviators to six scattered blows and was never in trouble except in the first few innings.

San Bernardino hit everything Wire had with Big Bill Sweet crashing out three for five, while Ed Daley, former Aviator, crashed out a circuit in the final frame.

With Sweet doubling and Kelly smashing out a homer, the Ponies got off to a flying start, though a blow by Hosack and a double by Wellin in the following inning kept Westminster in the game.

The third saw Kelly walking and scoring on Shadock whistling double, while the game was on ice in the seventh when Rosy Gillhouse beat out a punt to advance and scored on Sweet's smashing drive to right.

Daley ended the game with his circuit clout.

The eighth inning saw Westminster score with Sauer's singling and rounding the bases on Wire's sacrifice and Harpold's timely blow.

Commenting on the turn of events in the National Night league, Walter Wentz, president, today indicated that Huntington Beach would be credited with a 9-0 forfeit over Riverside for last night's scheduled game which failed to materialize.

"Chub" Reed, Riverside manager, was unable to get his team together for the trip to Huntington Beach last night as four of his players were unable to report for duty.

Paul Jeffries was sick, while Bill Hunter, trouble shooter for a utilities corporation, and Carl Morelock were called out of town. Ben Hammerschmidt, the former Fullerton youngster, was unable to leave his father's Perris Hills farm.

"This wouldn't happen again in ten years," Wilbur Fogleman, Riverside sport authority, explained. "It is just one of those things that is unavoidable."

Rumors that the tail-end Riverside club would fold up, as Colton did, were immediately dispelled by the Roubidoux booster.

President Wentz also is expecting a detailed report of the Santa Ana-Anaheim game from Umpires Arthur Sullivan and R. Kohler in regard to a flare-up between Floyd Montgomery and Bomo Koral.

"If I am assured by the umpires that the players have been fighting, Montgomery and Koral will be set down for the remainder of the quarter," the league president said as he explained that such tactics would be tolerated.

The remainder of the quarter would include the next two games only.

RATE PLAYERS' FISTS FLY IN FIFTH INNING

Santa Ana failed to sparkle last night when Lyle Morse's four-hit 8-1 Anaheim victory jolted the scintillating Stars from top place in the National Nightball league in a rude, unceremonious manner.

It was bad enough as it was, but Floyd Montgomery, Valencia outfielder, got the better of a fist-fight with "Bomo" Koral, Star catcher.

This battle was staged in Anaheim's big fifth inning when Cliff Edmonds singled sharply to center with the bases loaded.

Lanky Fred Wiseman crossed the plate first, then Montgomery came toward the rubber. As his foot hit the plate Koral made a lunge and lifted Anaheim player in the air.

Flies Through Air

Montgomery flew through the air and landed with a dull, somewhat sickening thud. But instead of laying prostrate on the ground ten feet from the point of impact, he jumped up, flew at Koral who was set for battle. Fists began to fly. Other players closed in.

Art Sullivan and Al Kohler were in the middle of the swirling throng of brightly clad players. Al Korneder stepped between the batters and got in a few licks himself. When other players had parted the gladiators, Koral had a cut over one eye—Montgomery had connected solidly at least once.

Both players were ordered off the field.

The game, itself, was Anaheim's from the beginning, as Morse started by pitching four innings of hitless baseball and his teammates made the most of the Stars' weak fielding behind the diminutive Earl Morrill, who was not up to par.

Scores In First

In the first inning Anaheim ran over its first counter when Wiseman took first on "Doc" Smith's error, made second on a passed ball and third when Tommy Younger gunned up a play at the hot corner. He scored on Edmonds' single to third.

The third inning saw Wiseman negotiating the pads again. This time he singled to center and went to second on "Chuck" Comstock's error in retrieving Nix's throw in. Montgomery scored him with a single to left.

Errors and two timely singles by Jimmy Silvers and Mel Higgins gave Anaheim another in the fourth the eventful fifth.

Five hits and a two-base error made it possible for the Valencians to put the game permanently on ice with four additional scores.

Through all the excitement, Morse weakened slightly and under the strain granted the Stars their first blow, a single through second by Bob Mott. The sixth saw Santa score its only run with Tom Denny taking first on an outfielder's error, advancing on a wild pitch and scoring on Comstock's single to center.

But that was Santa Ana's best, as Morse promptly cut off a possible rally by striking out Big Nan Coots and Young.

From the Dugout

Anaheim blasted Morrill for 16 assorted blows. . . . George Preble might have had a home run but for a prank of fate. He drove one into the left field bleachers only to have it bounce back into the playing field. . . . Morse collared 11 batters.

Wiseman, a truck driver who has been forced to give up nightball during the rush hours, was the big noise in the Anaheim lineup. Besides robbing his former teammate, "Chuck" Comstock, of a certain extra-base hit, he scored three runs personally. . . .

Santa Ana made seven errors. . . . Four were charged to Doctor Smith. . . . Comstock was the Star of the Stars, making several brilliant plays. . . . There were more Santa Ana men on the brilliantly clad Valencians than are on the Santa Ana team itself. . . .

Umpire Al Kohler found himself in hot water after calling a close one on Edmondson in the first. If he missed it, which is doubtful, he more than made up for it later in the game. . . . "He was too!" Doc called at Umpire Kohler with a pathetic note in his voice, but Kohler said: "He wasn't," and that settled it.

Today the hand crawl will be practiced in chest-deep water.

Observe the illustration carefully and allow the arm to bend at the elbow when it is coming out of the water. Roll shoulders slightly as upper arm comes down and goes into the water. Do NOT turn head too much.

Count 1—Stand in water chest-deep, lean forward from the hips, raise both hands overhead, come down with left hand. Follow through until the hand comes to a position even with thigh.

Count 2—As left hand comes out of water start down with right hand and follow same movements you have just completed with left hand.

INDIANS LOOM TO WIN MEET AFTER TRYOUT

BY WILLIAM McENAMIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

EDWARDS STADIUM, BERKELEY, June 19.—(UP)—National Collegiate Athletic association track and field champions were being crowned in Edwards Stadium today in a battle royal for 14 titles.

In that battle were approximately 300 athletes from 65 colleges and universities. When each contest was over the victor was to be honored in a flag raising ceremony with Olympic pomp and ceremony.

Coaches and athletes agreed two days ago that University of Southern California would win its sixth team championship. But today the whippers had broken into headlines predicting that Stanford university would win. Indiana had the best chance of any of the eastern teams to turn the trick.

The four favorites were the pole vault twins of Troy, Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton, who were expected to tie again at a new world record in their event. Few doubted that the vaulting twins could clear the bar at better than 15 feet.

After New Record

Next in interest was lanky John Woodruff of Pittsburgh, I.C.A.A. 880 yard and Olympic games 800 meter champion. Woodruff has his heart set on a world record in the four furlongs. He passed up the 400 in the trials yesterday to conserve his strength for the effort.

Unbeaten in 39 races in two seasons of competition, another Olympic games titleholder, Forrest Towns of Georgia, was gunning for a world record in the 120 yard low hurdles. To do it, he would have to break 14 seconds.

One of the big questions was whether Eulace Peacock, Temple's Negro sprinter, could recover from a leg cramp he suffered broad-jumping yesterday. He qualified for the 100 and broadjump finals.

Qualifying trials were held yesterday in 10 of the 14 events. Colleges which qualified men included: U.S.C., 11; Stanford, 8; Ohio State, 5; Washington State college, 5; Michigan, 4; Columbia, 4; Indiana, 4; Georgia, 3; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 3; Kansas State, 3; Kansas Teachers, Pittsburg, 3; Wayne, 3; Boston, 2; California, 2; U.C.L.A., 2; Kansas Teachers of Emporia, 2; Kentucky, 2; Nebraska, 2; Oregon, 2; Rice Institute, 2; Temple, 2; one each from Chicago, Colorado, Duke, Georgia Tech, Louisiana college, Maryland, Miami, Michigan State, Minnesota, North Dakota, Notre Dame, Oregon State, Pittsburgh, San Jose, Southern Methodist and Washington.

Gill, Benke Win

Gill of Boston and yellow-haired Benke of Washington State coasted to victory in the first heat of the 440 yard dash trials. They nosed out Halcrow of Chicago, Cunningham of Iowa State and Simmons of Nebraska. Elliott of Indiana scratched.

Woodruff, lanky, shuffling Pittsburgh Negro scratched from the second 440 heat. Observers believed he might be conserving his strength for an attack on the world 880 yard record.

Steakier of Indiana led the boys into a fast pace in the second 440 heat but faded at the finish and was passed by McCurdy of Stanford and Hicks of Indiana.

Qualifiers in the first heat, 440 yard dash, were Gill of Boston and Benke of Washington State.

Second heat 440, qualifiers: McCurdy, Stanford; Hicks, Indiana.

Sam Francis of Nebraska opened the preliminary trials in the shotput with a heave of 51 feet. Todd of San Jose State had thrown the javelin out over 211 feet.

SEARCH FOR UTAH PLANE POSTPONED

ALPINE, Utah, June 19.—(UP)—The search for the bodies of seven victims of an air crash last December on snow covered Lake Hardy peak has been abandoned until the great snowdrifts melt.

Western Air Express officials said today that it would be impossible to continue the search until they could dig through the drifts that now are 20 to 30 feet deep.

They had hoped to find the bodies in the fuselage of their plane which was wedged in the face of a 1000 foot cliff. They found only a woman's hat and a bag that belonged to the plane's stewardess.

"There is no telling where the bodies are," said Allan Barrie, vice president of the air line.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CORAL CRANDALL, heroine and senior at Elton College.
DAVID ARMSTRONG, Elton chemistry professor and Coral's husband.
DONNA ALLEN, Coral's sorority roommate.
HOYT MARQUIS, Coral's one-time fiance.

Yesterday Coral is scarcely reunited with David when he calls her to report that the secret formula of his chemical discovery has been stolen.

CHAPTER X
"DAVID, I simply can't understand it," Coral said, as they sat drinking their after-dinner coffee at the Tea Kettle. "That process has been missing two weeks, and not a single sign of it has appeared. It disappeared from the concealed drawer in your desk and vanished into thin air! You'd think that if the thief had sold it, we would have seen an announcement by some company of their 'discovery.' They'd want to make the announcement before President Norton makes the loss public."

David lit a cigaret and puffed on it moodily. "I've stopped even hazarding guesses as to what happened to it, Coral. All I can think of is that it was my fault. It was stolen, and that's that. Dear Matthews and most of the other faculty members think I stole it. It was inexcusable for me to leave that drawer containing the only copy of the process unlocked. I know that. But how was I to know that someone would sneak into the lab while I was gone, find the drawer that I thought no one but Maxwell, Bendoff and I knew about, and make off with the process as completely as if black magic were responsible?"

He drew deeply on his cigaret. "Sometimes I think it must have been black magic! I tell you, Coral, it was impossible for anyone to get into that lab Thursday afternoon, and the process was obviously stolen then. My two superiors were out of town at a meeting, I was in my rooms, and since there were no classes the laboratory was locked. Even the janitor took the afternoon off. Even though I did leave the drawer open the room itself was tight shut."

Coral reached across the table and took his free hand. "Don't worry about it too much, darling. I'm sure everything will come out all right eventually." Her brow clouded with worry. "I do wish the thing could be straightened out right away, though."

He shrugged. "I give up. Half the time I'm convinced that I have an evil genius wandering around

CONVICTS CAPTURED

STATE PRISON, Florence, Ariz., June 19.—(UP)—Three of four long-term robbers who forged passes and broke from prison in a stolen car Thursday, were confined to the "snakes" today after their capture at the end of a desert chase. They were Robert Kelly, 28, Alfred Williams, 22, and the campus, concentrating all his energies on harming me and my wife."

James Williams, confined in the "snakes," or solitary, and Carl Seely, 35, in the hospital.

AS she listened to his words, Coral had grown more and more excited. When he finished she spoke slowly, yet with excitement brimming in her voice.

"David, think carefully. Were you in the lab every minute of Friday afternoon? Didn't you leave once . . . just for a few minutes?"

His brow furrowed in concentration. Then he looked up suddenly. "Yes, I did leave once. About 3 o'clock I went outside to smoke a cigaret. I must have been gone about 15 minutes." His face fell. "That won't work, though, Coral. When I came back I found Donna and Hoyt Marquis there, fussing around the equipment. I asked Donna the other day if they'd seen anyone go in or out of the room while I was out and she said they hadn't, that they'd been there alone until I came back."

Coral jumped to her feet. "David, take me back to the house. Donna either took that process or had something to do with it. Don't you see how it all fits? She works in the lab and would have a chance to find that drawer. Her father is a chemical manufacturer. She's been trying to do something to please him, to make him keep her in school. What could be better than your process . . . and letting him think she worked it out herself? Hoyt may have helped her, to get even with me. I don't know how much of this is right, but I'm going to find out. Come on!"

TWENTY minutes later, Coral burst into the room at the sorority house which she and Donna shared. Her roommate sat curled up on the window seat, eating chocolates and reading a movie magazine. She looked up, her face startled, as Coral spoke. "Donna, put down that magazine and listen to me."

Donna complied in surprise. "What's the matter with you? What's up?"

"Plenty!" Coral's voice was stern. "Donna, tell me the truth. If you do, I promise that David and I will see that the authorities aren't hard on you. Donna, did you take that process from David's desk in the lab?"

Donna gazed at her unblushingly, her eyes wide and innocent. "Coral, have you lost your mind? Has the process been stolen? How awful! Of course you're upset. But what makes you think

Old Timers Planning Big Turn-Out

The Old Timers apparently are preparing to give Irvine Park one of its busy days when the annual picnic of the Old Timers Association is held there Sunday, June 27.

County Clerk J. M. Backs, who is president of the Old Timers Association, stated today that inquiries regarding the picnic date and arrangements are coming in large numbers, showing an unprecedented interest in the event.

Since crowds of 5000 or more have attended past picnics of the organization, the advance indications point to a big turn-out this year, Backs said.

Secretary Elmer B. Burns has been mailing out announcement cards to members of the organization, many of whom reside at distant points in the state or even beyond its borders.

I would do such a dreadful thing."

"You spread the story around the campus," Coral said quietly. "You knew the process was stolen, because you took it. Didn't you? Answer me! Didn't you take it?"

Donna was angry now, her eyes were frightened, her usually rosy mouth was twisted in an ugly grimace. "I didn't take the silly process. You're crazy!"

Coral took her by the shoulders and shook her a little. "If you didn't take it you know who did. I'm sure of it! As she released her, Coral's shoulder struck against a hanging bookcase. It swung crazily on its cord, then crashed, books and all, to the floor. As she stooped to pick them up, Coral noticed a slip of blue paper protruding from the bent leaves of a dictionary. She caught it up with a cry of triumph. She looked at Donna squarely. "You did a very poor job of hiding it. Now, let's have the whole story. I'm going to Professor Maxwell and you're coming with me."

Donna sprang to her feet, her eyes blazing. "Oh, no, you don't! In the first place I didn't take it. Hoyt did. I saw him, so he gave it to me to keep for reasons both of us have . . . good reasons. You can't do a thing to me, because I still have the whip hand, Coral. If you try to report me for this, I'll get there first. I'll tell Maxwell that you took it, that I found it in your dictionary. I'll tell him you and David are married. In fact, Miss Coral Crandall, I'll tell everyone everything and more, too, and I'll make 'em believe me. I'll be the campus heroine and will I chuckle to see you and your precious David thrown out of here." She laughed loudly.

Coral looked at her gravely for a long minute. She turned and walked to the door. As she opened it, she wheeled and faced Donna again. "You've had your chance. I'm going to Maxwell and Bendoff with this story and the process. Do what you like. I know what I must do, and I'm sure my story will be believed."

Donna spoke contemptuously. "I'm afraid you're wrong. I'm going to Bendoff and Maxwell, too. We'll see who tells the most convincing story. You and your noble David, or little Donna. Your tale won't stand a chance against mine. Wait and see!"

Presented by Councilman Will H. Kindig, it stated there was reason to think the council had been misinformed concerning the city's purchase of the company's electric plant. It voiced the belief that "instead of being reluctant to sell at the stated price, the corporation, in fact, was so anxious to sell as to aid in the campaign to the extent of $45,000, and that there may have been collusion between the owners of the property and the city's representatives."

GENE RAYMOND, O'BRIEN COME TO BROADWAY

Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern score a screen scoop in the newspaper story, "There Goes My Girl," which opens tomorrow at the Broadway. It is a fast-paced show with ample action, thrills and judiciously spotted comedy, showing the blonde-haired Gene and the "brunette" and glamorous Ann at their happy best.

"Slim," a Warner Bros. melodrama dealing with the lads who string high-tension power lines across the country—will open as the second feature.

A Pete Smith oddity, "The Grand Bounce," cartoon and news are added attractions.

"There Goes My Girl" places Gene and Ann as rival newspaper reporters who are in love. Their plans to get married were interrupted right in the middle of the wedding ceremony by a shooting, but when Ann learned that her hard-boiled city editor, played by Richard Lane, had framed a murder hoax because he was unwilling to lose his ace news-hawk, she was "burned." Then things happen.

Co-stars in the picture, and pals in the story, are Pat O'Brien and Henry Fonda, the latter carrying the title role and the former acting the part of "Red," who teaches "Slim" the business.

The girl whom they both love is the attractive and capable Margaret Lindsay.

"Nine-tenths of the action of 'Slim' is outdoors, and there are said to be many amazing scenes depicting the perils and thrills of the wire-stringers, who erect 100-foot towers, clamber up and down them, and put into position the strands that carry energy, sometimes braving blizzards to do so. Stuart Erwin, J. Farrell MacDonald, John Littel and Jane Wyman are in the cast.

BEERY, BAXTER

STAR WEDNESDAY

William Faulkner, noted author of "Pylon," "Sanctuary," and many other widely read novels, wrote the story of "Slave Ship." Twentieth Century-Fox saga of the sea which opens Wednesday at the West Coast, with Warner Baxter and Wallace Beery as co-stars.

Faulkner based his story on the novel by George S. King, "The Last Slave," which deals with the adventurous last voyage of a slave-running schooner in the early 1800's. Elizabeth Allan, Mickey Rooney, George Sanders and Joseph Schildkraut are in the cast of the show, described as one of the finest sea adventure pictures ever made.

Would you like to go all the way around the world in the space of a few minutes beyond a single hour? It can be done. All that's necessary is to go to the West Coast to see "Fly-By-Night," second feature beginning Wednesday.

The story is based on the recent race of three globe-trotting reporters, two men and a woman. The story was written by the girl, Dorothy Kilgallen. Glenda Farrell, blonde comedienne, plays the part of the girl reporter, as "Tochy Blaine," Barton MacLane is co-featured in this speedy, murder mystery story.

AVIATOR BEERY

At first undertaking the study of aerodynamics as an interesting hobby, Wallace Beery, starred with Warner Baxter in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Slave Ship," soon developed every spare moment to the business of flying, with the result that he became a full-fledged, government-licensed transport pilot, the highest flying distinction possible in this country. Nearly 90 per cent of his transcontinental trips are made by him as pilot of his own ship.

FONDA APPEARS ON STATE BILL

Brought to the screen in all the lifelike beauty of natural Technicolor, "Wings of the Morning," the flaming romance of a lovely fugitive fleeing from strife-torn Spain, opened yesterday at the State. Annabella, a new and alluring sensation of the screen, is starred with Henry Fonda and Leslie Banks in the film, which presents the world-famous tenor, John McCormack.

Lovers of thrilling outdoor drama sprinkled with comedy and romance, will welcome the George O'Brien adventure picture, "Park Avenue Logger," opens as second feature. "Ace Drummond," Chapter 6, is added.

The spectacular changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace, home of English Kings, the most sensational Derby ever run, with jockey Steve Donoghue riding his most thrilling race; John McCormack, beloved Irish tenor, singing the songs of Ireland that have made him famous—these are a few of the moments that make "Wings of the Morning," a film at once beautiful and breath-taking.

Crammed from start to finish with exciting action, "Park Avenue Logger" offers O'Brien a role in which his virile personality is seen at its best.

The story is laid in the giant timber country of the Northwest where O'Brien is seen as a newcomer in the logging business, but whose excellent physical condition and sledge-hammer fists soon command respect among the hardy lumberjacks.

Beatrice Roberts, former Ziegfeld beauty, makes her film debut as the stalwart star's leading lady. Other important members of the cast who turn in capable performances are Bert Hanlon, Gertrude Short, Willard Robertson, Ward Bond, Robert F. O'Connor and Lloyd Ingraham.

DEATH VALLEY IS MYSTERY SETTING

When pretty Betty Furness and handsome John Howard Payne arrive simultaneously at the fashionable resort of Death Valley, love strikes at first sight, but at the same instant unseen death strikes—once, twice and again, in the thrilling Philip Wylie mystery story, "Fair Warning." Twentieth Century-Fox film adapted by Norman Foster and showing Wednesday and Thursday at the State.

A story of secret murder and sudden romance in Death Valley's millionaire playground, the film features J. Edward Bromberg as the world's most embarrassed detective, faced by a startling crime. In the second feature of a double bill which adds "Scouring the Skies," newsreel cameraman's adventure, and "Musical Changers," Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra, as "extras," Lewis Stone, noted character actor, returns to the screen after a year's absence in a powerful dramatic role in "Outcast," motion picture adaptation of Frank R. Adams' novel "Happiness Preferred."

As a sturdy old country lawyer, Stone's dramatic role puts him between Karen Morley, as the hate-filled, vengeance-seeking girl of the story, and Warren William, the tormented young doctor she has vowed to destroy.

Radio Singer Plays In Film

In songs on a famous oil company radio program, the lovely voice of Lorraine Janney is known throughout the nation. She now is to be seen as the charming romantic interest for handsome but deadly Johnny Mack Brown in "Bar Z Bad Men," a rip-roaring picture of cattle rustling, outlaws, deputies and cowmen, which shows for the last time tonight at the Princess theatre.

Another chapter of "The Vigilantes Are Coming," comedy and cartoon are added attractions.

Two Shows End Runs Here Saturday Nite

"Hills of Old Wyoming," latest "Hopalong Cassidy" picture, portraying exceptionally well, scenes of Sioux Indian ceremonies, features William Boyd in a dashing western role at Walker's for the last times today. Laverne Brown, Orange man and former ace aviator, known as John Trent on the screen, leads the second feature cast in a story of a metropolitan hospital, "A Doctor's Diary." The brilliant cast with Trent includes Helen Burgess, George Bancroft, Sidney Blackmer and others. Two added attractions also are offered.

At the State, "The Big Show," a special singing western, with cast of 30 and five orchestras in support, shows for the last times today. A Charlie Chase comedy, Betty Boop cartoon, news and "Flash Gordon," Chapter 8, complete the program.

"Anthony Adverse," picturization of a book 3,000,000 persons have read, deeply dramatic, starring Frederic March and Olivia de Havilland, comes to the Walker's screen tomorrow for four days. Laurel and Hardy are at it again in the second feature, "Way Out West," while Mickey Mouse and news features are added.

Andy Devine plays an important role in this newspaper picture. Second feature is "Down to the Sea," with Ben Lyon, Vince Barnett, Ann Rutherford and Fritz Leiber.

Burns-Ray Star In New Picture

Four new hit tunes, written in the traditional hillbilly manner, will be heard for the first time in "Mountain Music," the comedy starring Bob Burns and Martha Raye, which opens Sunday, June 27, at the Broadway.

Bringing the adventures of a roving news broadcaster's life to the screen for the first time, "Behind the Headlines," stars Lee Tracy in an exciting action-romance, the second feature.

"Songs in 'Mountain Music' are: 'Good Mornin'," and 'If I Put My Heart in My Song,' sung by Miss Raye; 'Can't You Hear That Mountain Music?' sung by Terry Walker, beautiful night club singer who makes her film debut in this picture; and 'That She Comes,' sung by a hillbilly chorus. Diana Gibson has the feminine lead opposite the fast-talking Tracy. As a radio reporter Tracy scoops his newspaper rivals by radio broadcasting.

Comedy, Looney cartoon, "Flash Gordon," Chapter 8, and newsreel furnish a generous group of special attractions.

Musical Western At State Friday

Columbia's answer to the admitted demand for important outdoor pictures is what might have been expected from a studio which is becoming world-famous for the artistry of its cinematic products. It is titled "Dodge City Trail." It opens at the State Friday with Charles Starrett as the star and Donald Grayson, a screen newcomer, as the featured singer.

The story tells of Starrett, a Texas ranch foreman, en route by trail with a huge herd of cattle for the railroad point at Dodge City in the historic days when the west was opened for pioneer migration. Grayson, as the singing cowboy, is a personable young fellow with a grand voice. Keep an eye on that lad.

Comedy, Looney cartoon, "Flash Gordon," Chapter 8, and newsreel furnish a generous group of special attractions.

Two men and a girl get love-tangled up in the clever story of high-power linemen, put into the picture, "Slim," which opens at the Broadway tomorrow. Above are Margaret Lindsay, Pat O'Brien and Henry Fonda in a dancing mood. Second feature, of newspaper life, stars Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern in "There Goes My Girl."

'LIGHT BRIGADE' SCREENS THURSDAY

"The Charge of the Light Brigade," Warner Brothers' tremendous production suggested by the immortal poem of Alfred Lord Tennyson, with "Song of the City," featuring Margaret Lindsay and Jeffrey Dean, comes to Walker's Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland head an all-star cast and 15,000 extra people in "The Charge of the Light Brigade."

"Our Gang" comedy and newsreel also are on the program. The absorbing story of the Light Brigade is said to have been produced on a mammoth scale with colorful interior settings, including the magnificent palace of the Amir of Suristan with his retinue of Nauteh dancing girls, slaves and members of his court.

The distinguished cast includes Patric Knowles, Henry Stephens, Nigel Bruce, C. Henry Gordon, Robert Barrat, Spring Byington, E. E. Clive, J. Carroll Naish and Helen Sanborn.

Because Stanley Morner is able to sing and sail at the same time, he won an important motion picture role in "Song of the City." A singer was needed who could stand on the bow of a wave-washed boat and sing romantic songs.

Morner passed the test with flying colors and was selected to portray Tommy in the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer picture, featuring Margaret Lindsay, Jeffrey Dean, J. Carroll Naish and Nat Pendleton.

MYSTERY, DRAMA COME TO PRINCESS

A diverting mixture of mystery and comedy, the Universal film, "Mysterious Crossing," opens with tomorrow with a matinee at the Princess theatre. It is entertaining screen fare that combines drama with a light touch of the humorous; mystery treated in the modern manner which has proved so popular.

Deep-sea divers battling with denizens of the ocean. Scenic backgrounds of Florida's coastline. Pictorial shots of an ancient Epiphany celebration in the all-Greek colony of Tarpon Springs, Fla.

These are a few of the highlights in "Down to the Sea," gripping, romantic-drama, which is second feature at the Princess.

"Mysterious Crossing" centers around a roving reporter, played by the popular James Dunn, whose nose for news leads him to New Orleans' biggest story of the year. Andy Devine, cast as a hillbilly singer, "haunts" the reporter throughout the picture, trying the impossible task of collecting a loan. Jean Rogers has the feminine lead.

In the second picture, Ann Rutherford, Ben Lyon, Russell Hardie, Fritz Leiber, Irving Pichel, Vince Barnett and others feature.

COMING TO BROADWAY "Married Before Breakfast," and "Meet the Missus," comedy fare, will lead the attractions offered in a double bill at the Broadway, beginning Thursday, June 24, it was announced today.

RIOTERS AT WEST COAST

Making the Marx brothers make sense sounds like the oddest of Hollywood assignments.

But that is the strange fate that befell George Seaton and Robert Pirosh, co-authors with George Kaufman and Al Boasberg of "A Day at the Races," the new Marx Brothers comedy riot, now showing at the West Coast.

Specialists in comedy construction, their peculiar job was to lend logic to the comedians' lunacy and method to their madness. For there must be rhyme and reason behind the Marxian escapades, else their pictures run the danger of becoming a mad jumble of unrelated incidents, too confusing for popular consumption.

"The fact that there are three of them doesn't make our job three times as easy," commented Pirosh. "It makes it three times as hard. Harpo is the most difficult to keep busy because of his pantomime."

"As a comedy team, they are perfectly balanced. Chico does dialect comedy. Groucho is a wisecracker, and Harpo is an exponent of the age-old art of pantomime. There never was any need for a fourth Marx Brother. In 'A Day at the Races' they use a horse instead."

Second feature, "That I May Live," with Rochelle Hudson and Robert Kent, is the dramatic story of a young man's struggle to win his way back into a place in the sun after release from prison—his battle against his old enemies who framed him on a murder charge but who, in turn, were framed through assistance of the clever Miss Hudson.

MARCH OF TIME, COMEDIES CLOSE

The new Universal's brilliant comedy-drama, "As Good As Married," the story of a marriage for convenience, is featured for the last times tonight at the Broadway.

In producing this picture, the new Universal assembled a splendid cast, including John Boles, Doris Nolan, Walter Pidgeon, Alan Mowbray and Esther Ralston. Boles plays the part of a successful architect, who is about to lose the major part of his large income through taxes, marries his secretary in order to reduce those taxes.

"You Can't Beat Love," second feature, is a lively, wholesome, newspaper comedy with Preston Foster, Herbert Mundin, Barbara Pepper and Benton Churchill. From war-threatened Europe to-day, March of Time has selected its main subject matter in a program which is added to the regular features. News reels and cartoon also are added.

'ADVERSE' TO START SUNDAY AT WALKER'S

The long awaited Warner brothers production of "Anthony Adverse," filmed from Hervey Allen's epic novel, which boasts 3,000,000 readers, comes to Walker's tomorrow for a four-day stay, with Laurel and Hardy in another of their farces, "Way Out West," as second feature.

"Anthony Adverse" features Frederic March in the stellar role with Olivia de Havilland playing opposite him in the famine lead.

In its panoramic story sweep through five countries and three continents, the magnitude of its 131 sets, the picturesqueness of its backgrounds, the gigantic scale on which it was produced and the vast number of talented players in its cast, "Anthony Adverse" surpasses any picture filmed by Warner Bros.

Of the more important players in the cast are Edmund Gwenn, Claude Rains, Anita Louise, Louis Hayward, Gale Sondergaard, Steph Duna, Billy Mauch, Donald Woods, Akim Tamiroff, Ralph Morgan, Henry O'Neill, Pedro de Cordoba, George E. Stone and Luis Alberni.

When Laurel and Hardy sing a duet with variations, preceded by a swing dance of the gay 90's vintage, in the Hal Roach-M-G-M feature-length comedy, "Way Out West," it represents the most hilariously funny, brilliant entertainment this stellar team of comics has presented during the more than ten years they have been together on the screen.

Characterizations by Sharon Lynne, James Finlayson, Rosina Lawrence, The Avalon Four and Stanley Fields are outstanding. Mickey Mouse and newsreel also appear on the program as added attractions.

Luise Rainer Is Powell Co-Star

In her three Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures, "Escapade," "The Great Ziegfeld," and "The Good Earth" Luise Rainer had no opportunity to wear beautiful modern clothes. For her latest picture "The Emperor's Candlesticks," in which she co-stars with William Powell, fifteen lovely gowns and ensembles of an original modernized Russian Imperial style were designed for her. The picture opens June 30 at the West Coast. "Who would shoot a man already dead?" is the puzzle baffling police and investigators in "The Great Hospital Mystery." Twentieth Century-Fox thriller with comic overtones, which opens on the same bill. Jane Darwell heads the cast which includes Sig Ruman, Sally Blane, Thomas Beck and Joan Davis.

The Mixing Bowl

By ANN MEREDITH

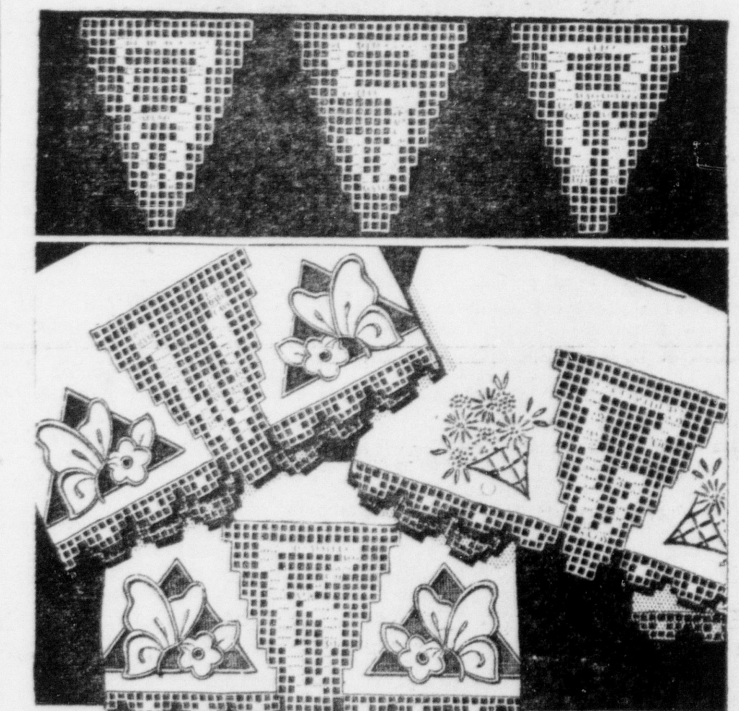

You wouldn't think of eating breakfast without first brushing your teeth. . . now, would you? Yet there are thousands of people who eat a hearty breakfast without the courtesy to their stomachs of a drink of water before breakfast.

Not only will you feel better, but by following this simple rule, appetite can be controlled and weight reduced.

Before you dress, get to the kitchen and put the juice of a lemon into half a glass of hot or cold water. Drink it while you are dressing and allow at least 20 minutes to elapse before you eat. If lemon juice distresses you, add a quarter-cup of pineapple juice to the contents of the glass.

Commencement

Having emerged from twelve years of planned preparation, you now stand at the portal of a new experience, gazing out over a vista of unrestrained—of uncharted activity.

The paths before your eyes are intertwined, forming a lace-work of bewilderment. A few seem to have more obstacles than the rest; a few others seem to have, what appear, unbridgeable chasms.

Glories, honors and the crowns of success are reached only over these paths, which the vast majority shun. Surmounting difficulties and bridging the chasms along your chosen path builds manhood, strengthens the moral fibre of your being and devel-

COME TO CHURCH

The Church is the meeting place for God and His People

What's Wrong With The World?

"And God saw everything that he had made and behold, it was very good." Genesis 1:31.

What's the matter with the world? You can hear the question on every hand, and you can hear a thousand different answers if you listen.

Our economic system is wrong, says one. Our mechanical advancement has thrown civilization out of joint. Our spiritual and moral progress has not kept up with our scientific achievement. Our system of government has done us wrong. The automobile has wrecked us. The radio is ruining our young people. Modernism in religion has destroyed our faith. Fundamentalism has made religion ridiculous.

And so the list of answers runs on ad infinitum. Each one has his answer, depending on his personal views. You can get the blame placed on almost anything or anyone except the one that is really to blame.

When God had finished His creative work, He looked it over and pronounced it all "very good," and if God called it "very good" then it must have been good indeed.

And then God put man into this good world He had made—and the trouble started. Man, by his sin and self-will, made the trouble. If there is anything wrong with the world, it is man.

The situation is something like that of a property owner who rents a house to some careless tenant. You have seen such a case —perhaps you have been the landlord.

You put the property into good order, painted, papered, polished up the house, put in a lawn, planted flowers in the borders, and let the tenant move in. Two or three months later you came around to look at the place and perhaps to see why the rent was not being paid—and what a change you found!

The lawn was full of weeds and trash; the flowers were all dead; the glass was broken in the windows; the doors were off their hinges—a pretty discouraging sight for the owner. But did you blame the house for it? Not at all. You blamed the unworthy tenants who had abused your property and then had failed to pay the rent.

Well, let's think of God as the landlord, the world as the property and ourselves as the tenants. What is the matter with this good world God made and leased to us? Why, WE are the matter. We, who have occupied this world as God's tenants and husbandmen, we who have wasted its resources, destroyed its beauty and exploited not only the world but each other, careless of all obligation to our Divine Landlord—we are what is wrong with the world.

And then we have had the effrontery to class the world among evil things. We pray to be delivered from "the world, the flesh and the devil" and we have actually made "the world" a synonym for depravity. Perhaps we do not mean by that expression the beautiful world of God's creation, but some evil condition which has grown up through our wrongdoing, but we should certainly not use the word in that way when we speak of "that one vast thought of God which we call the world."

Plato said, "The world is God's epistle to mankind—His thoughts are flashing upon us from every direction."

Henry Ward Beecher said, "The heavens and the earth alike speak of God, and the great natural world is but another Bible which clasps and binds the written one, for nature and grace are one."

But Charles Dickens gave us a striking statement of the other use of that term "the world," when he wrote, "The world is a conventional phrase which, being interpreted, signifies all the rascality in it." And the rascality in the world is here because men are here.

Man's selfishness is the trouble with the world. We are the culprits who have done the damage. If we want a better world to live in we can have it if we will take decent care of what God has given us. The materials are in our hands. If we do not make our surroundings and our conditions better we ought to be at least honest enough to admit our delinquency.

"The world is God's workshop for making men," said Henry Ward Beecher. "It is a beautiful and a blessed world we live in, and while life lasts, to lose the enjoyment of it is sin."

It is a good world. God made it and it had to be good to win His approval. It is ours to use and enjoy and make better if we will. All God's resources are at our command. All we need is a new heart and a new hope and a new determination to let God reign on earth, and His Kingdom will give us the ideal world in which we want to live.

NICARAGUA has found a means of raising funds for transporting its athletes to the Central American Olympic Games in Panama in 1938. It's the issue of 1,000,000 one-centavo stamps, use of which is compulsory on all letters. The design shows a baseball player.

Anatole France, famous author, will be the subject for a new "intellectual charity" stamp to be issued soon by France.

Honduras has produced a series of four stamps commemorating the prolongation of President Carias' term of office to January 1, 1943. The stamps show General Carias and the bridge named in his honor.

A new series of stamps is being prepared by Italy for what is now "Italian East Africa," the territory that includes Eritrea, Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland.

The revolutionary decree of the Maharajah of Travancore, permitting "untouchables" to worship in the Indian state's shrines and temples, is being commemorated by a series of four stamps. These portray the Indian ruler and various temples of Travancore. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

TAX GROUP TO MEET TUESDAY

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(UP)—Treasury experts today compiled data on organization of foreign insurance companies by American citizens—which Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill termed the second of eight "devices" used to avoid taxes.

To Submit Names
Names of at least five American taxpayers probably will be submitted to the special congressional tax investigating committee when it reconvenes Tuesday in support of the treasury's request for legislation to close loopholes in the present tax laws.

Congressional tax experts studied means of legislating against foreign corporation set ups by American individuals for the purpose of reducing income tax payments. They placed the "device" as the first in their eight point list.

Rep. Fred M. Vinson, D., Ky., and other committee members suggested the possibility of increasing the present 10 per cent tax on American earned dividends going abroad. A 25 per cent tax on an individual's income going to make up the capital surplus of a foreign corporation also was discussed.

Seven Are Named

The names of seven persons were drawn into that angle of the investigation yesterday by treasury officials. They were Charles L. Laughton, movie star; Philip de Ronde, Paraguayan consul in New York City; Jules S. Bache, New York banker; Wallace Groves, New York chain store operator and financier; Percy K. Judson, a former member of the New York Stock exchange; Jacob Schick, retired, U. S. army officer and inventor of the "dry shaver" razor; and Geo. Westinghouse, millionaire of New Brunswick and the Bahamas Islands.

LAUGHLIN TIRED OF TALK ON TAXES

LONDON, June 19.—(UP)—Charles Laughton, asked by the Daily Express about his inclusion in a list of alleged tax avoiders at Washington, said today:

"My dear fellow, I don't know anything about the damned thing. It's been dithering over my head for two years now and I'm so tired of hearing about it."

(Dither: To tremble, quake, quiver, shake; also bother, trouble.)

Following a potluck dinner, dancing was enjoyed by more than 175. Music was provided by a 14-piece band furnished by the Federal Music project.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kellogg, parents of Ernest L. Kellogg, for whom the post was named; Dan Russell, commander of the Pullerton V. F. W.; John Martens, Anaheim commander; Charles Kincaid, Oceanside commander, and Charles L. Grove, senior vice commander of the Orange post.

California News Shorts

SELBY, Calif., June 19.—(UP)—

Employees of the American Smelting and Refining company plant here, who normally would be spending their weekend at their homes, remained at the plant today as their sit down strike entered its fourth day. Sitting with the idle workers were armed guards sent in by the company to safeguard stores of gold and silver refined at the plant.

The sitdowners, went on strike to enforce demands that a foreman either be discharged or subordinated.

COLMA, Calif., June 19.—(UP)—

Funeral services were held here today for James Leroy Nickel, 58, former president of the Miller & Lux Land company and one of the great "land barons" of the state. Nickel, who died at a Palo Alto hospital, Thursday, was a son-in-law of the late Henry Miller, one of the founders of the Miller & Lux company which controlled thousands of acres of fertile farm land in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys.

FRESNO, Calif., June 19.—(UP)—

The increased importation of eggs from the Orient and South America is directly responsible for the present slump in the poultry business in this country, delegates to the 14th annual convention of the California Baby Chick association today were told by the group's president, George England.

FRESNO, Calif., June 19.—(UP)—

Authorities today started an investigation into the death of Franklin Bowell, 67, who died in county hospital from injuries allegedly received in a fall. Officers were questioning 70-year-old Charles White, who admitted fighting with Bowell over "taxes".

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—(UP)—

Delegates to a regional state chamber of commerce meeting were homeward bound today, faced with predictions of a $109,000,000 tax increase during the next year.

Business men and county officials told the session additional funds for unemployment relief, old age and blind pensions, child aid and increased administrative costs might easily make the estimate conservative.

TWO NIGHT SPOTS RAIDED BY POLICE

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—(UP)—Two fashionable night spots along Beverly boulevard were raided early today in a surprise move by Hollywood and Los Angeles police squads. The raids hit the Cliff Dwellers and the Century club, where one woman and seven men were arrested on suspicion of selling liquor after hours.

Besides Mrs. Sally Halsan, proprietor of the Cliff Dwellers, and George Carr, her cafe manager, five waiters were arrested at both places.

Modern Poets

BY BEULAH MAY

Henry Harrison, that publisher of beautiful books, is now sole editor of Poetry World and is bringing it out in an attractive new format.

He Takes Her Hand

Suddenly, suddenly as the leaf falling on the dry meadow, They have grown old. He has not noticed before her step is slower, Surely her heart is not cold.

Beautifully, beautifully, as the last falling of the gray twilight, He takes her hand.

Oh, it is wonderful, love they leave now, blending Sweetly as clover with land.

Cemetery on the Old Farm

The vine entwines her fingers Round the crumbled stone, while grass, Greeting the rain and sunshine, lingers With grave and summer. Birds that pass

Nick berries growing On Peter Clark Forgotten under blowing Years. But the lark

And summer will remember: They know this man-forsaken place Where bough and sun are food and ember,

And there is only life to face.

JOSEPH JOEL KEITH.

Summer Woods

The thrasher flashes noiselessly From bush to tree And back again; sometimes the towhee Calls; over the three Low valleys cowbells sound; But mostly silence holds the air, the ground.

I know no other place so still With life, no night, no secret hill Or slope, no hidden place Where I have never seen another's face

After the memory of streets has gone, And lights at night, bells at dawn; After the heart's stillness knows their lack

No longer, after the murmurs cease, I shall go back.

AUGUST DERLITH.

Flying Fitness Stressed

DALLAS, Tex.—(UP)—Mental fitness alone will not qualify pilots of the future to fly giant passenger ships. They will have to have an unruffled home life and a peace of mind before they will be allowed to pilot passenger planes, believes H. C. Stunkel, assistant operations manager of Braniff Airways.

It is never advisable to taxi into the takeoff position until ready for the takeoff, because it forces the dispatcher to hold back other planes.

IS IT POSSIBLE. to get 10 acres of land on the highway in Santa Ana for as low as $250 per acre? We didn't believe so but along comes a listing for just that. And to better satisfy and make it just that much more valuable there is a water right, and interest in a pumping plant. May we also add, it's just outside of Santa Ana, walking distance possibly, but you'd have to be a very good walker. We wouldn't know where to duplicate this so perhaps if you are interested we'd better ask you to. OK, we'll come as soon as you can. No. 8058

DRIVE CAREFULLY
- SAVE A LIFE -

TEACHING SAFE DRIVING

There must be education if we are to succeed in reducing the awful loss of life and property through preventable accidents. With this in mind the schools of Orange county next fall will include in their curricula traffic safety.

With interesting text matter, ample reading references, and a wide range of thought problems and projects, the pupil is to be taught the essential principles of safety effectively—with least teaching effort—with least interference with other school work.

We can think of many less useful subjects that are being taught in the public schools today.

BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE

Two hundred Boy Scouts from Southern California and Arizona will gather in Irvine park next week for a three-day jamboree, preparatory to a trip to Washington, D. C., where they will attend the national jamboree.

The annual sojourn to Irvine park is becoming an institution and is a training period looked forward to at the close of the school year.

Because the nation's capital is the setting for the national jamboree the number making the trip this year is larger than usual. A special train will leave Santa Ana Thursday night for Washington and during the three days the boys are encamped at Irvine park they will be given an intensive course in train etiquette.

The value of the Boy Scout movement is recognized by parents and educators. The boys can earn their camp trips through hard work and application to their duties. They purchase their own outfits and pay their own way wherever they go.

The visit to Washington this year by the local boys will be outstanding in their memories for years and years to come.

FATHER'S DAY

For 365 days each year, our fathers spend the major portion of their time planning, scheming, cutting corners, wherever possible, in an effort to keep us in the necessities of life.

How few of us stop to realize the hardships and sacrifices our fathers subject themselves to in order that we may live comfortably. It's no fun for Father, when he has to give up his membership in the golf club because the money necessary for such membership is needed at home.

It's no fun for Father to climb out of bed each day at the crack of dawn, sit down at a desk all day; jump when the boss cracks the whip. It's no fun, but he has to do it if he wants his family to respect him and live according to the accepted standards.

That's the whole thing. Living according to the accepted standards. Father has to sacrifice his personal interests so that those dear to him may enjoy the comforts of life.

Tomorrow, we'll take time out to pay our respects to Father. It will be his day. The one day set aside each year when we are privileged to show him in some way just how much we appreciate all he has done and is doing for us.

So, tomorrow we'll take our hats off to Dad, slap him on the back and tell him he's a swell fellow. Make him forget for a while his worries—worries that are a result of his love for us.

There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds.
—Tennyson.

REGISTER CLEARING HOUSE

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register: Have not some of the pseudo interpreters of so-called science—who also seem possessed of a complete misunderstanding and lack of knowledge of the Bible—fallen in their little pits, which their imaginary reasoning powers have dug? We must all have a cure when God's word subjects we have a limited understanding of for is it not written that fools rush in where angels fear to tread?

Here indeed appears a scholar and student of first rank, for he gleefully writes of the "many mistakes," "interpolations," he finds in the book. Then, comes to his conclusion—"The information contained in the sacred literature (is) absolutely untrustworthy."

Many wise men have advised us not to argue with God's word. Peter (cured of his natural human characteristic, faithlessness) tells us there are many things in Paul's writings, hard to understand, which we do well not to wrestle with (as some do) to their own destruction.

However, now that this writer has brushed aside the whole Bible in such an unconvincing way, without any understanding of the "two testaments or wills" he must be "ignorant" (unknown) in respect to its teaching or perhaps afflicted with that uncircumcised heart mentioned so often in the pages. God hardened Pharaoh's heart and he became stiff-necked. He did not want the Israelites to return to their promised land, likewise these presumptuous, self-willed ones do not want our Promised Land to come about.

They presume to separate Christ from the rest of the Bible. Is he not found in all its pages? Did he not come to save sinners, rather than the righteous proclaiming ones? Rejected by his generation, is this not his generation?

Jesus made plain that some, being children of Satan, could not comprehend certain sayings and parables. But he did not deny his power to save through the Father, if and when they saw fit to call upon his name. How can you accept part of Jesus, when he is called by so many names? Have you a leg to stand upon after separating Christ from the Scriptures? He has persisted through history, these attacks are not new. Many attempts have been made to make him only the Son of man, divested of his Divine rights and powers. These impute to him lies and attempt to brand him a false prophet. He is the "Spirit of Prophecy" (Rev. 19:10), and his name is called "The Word of God" (Rev. 19:13). If you have spoken a careless word about Jesus, he is capable of forgiving. But what about us being judged for every careless word? The Lord loves a humble and contrite spirit.

He supported the law and the prophets, absolutely. His law of love was above them, spiritually. It covered, answered all things, there is no Simon-pure Christianity without it. We need the law and the prophets (while our feet are upon the earth). They will pass away until all things are fulfilled. His words (those in the red letters) will never pass away.

This writer states that the world will not be redeemed etc. by the second coming of Christ. Quite right. The world and all that is therein will be consumed with fervent heat; it will wax old like a garment. The children who the Father gave him are to be redeemed, out of the world, as Noah the eighth person was saved. They were not a party to it. Now we that love his appearing (coming), look for it. (Paul). A "wicked and adulterous" (spiritually) generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas." Is faith that sign? Christ provided for all you doubters.

Your Christ (false) is one after the precept of men. A word to the wise is sufficient.

There are many advocating a new standard of truth to replace the "Infallible" Book. Christ did not answer Philip when he asked, what is truth? (John 18:38). He had declared he himself was the truth. The "Word was made flesh" etc. (St. John 1:14). We have teachers with itching ears today also. Was not the spirit of anti-Christ already in the world? "We cannot build a safe world on the Bible as a whole," this writer says. True again, the things of the world are subject to time, which is temporal. The things of God are eternal (ever lasting). If you reason with a restricted mind and have an uncircumcised heart, it (reason) will lead you to "the blackness of darkness forever" (Jude). The misinterpretations of Paul. He did not privately interpret prophecy or other Scripture. He was the accredited apostle (by Christ on Damascus road) "to the Gentiles and the children of Israel" (Acts). Here again you deny Christ as well as Paul. Also could you have honestly written that about practicing the "Golden Rule

Sharing the Comforts Of Life—

By R. C. Hoiles

COLLECTIVE SUICIDE

Dr. Halford E. Lucecock of Yale University, at the Methodist Conference, said, "collective suicide will be the ultimate result of our scientific progress if we fail to find a solid basis of mutuality and interdependence."

For a quarter of a century we have been attempting to do exactly what Dr. Lucecock says. We have attempted to share the comforts of life by sharing management. It has not worked and now those who are in control contend that it has not worked because there has not been enough of the sharing of management, or in other words, the sharing of wealth.

The Practical Method of Sharing Comforts We are compelled to agree with the philosophers of the ages as to the most practical method of sharing the comforts of life. Logic compels us to agree with such men as St. Paul, Adam Smith, John Stuart Mill, Herbert Spencer, Emerson and such modern thinkers as Ogden Mills, Thomas F. Woodlock of the Wall Street Journal and Irving Fisher of Yale as to the best way of sharing the comforts of life.

The practical methods of sharing the comforts of life is by taking away the instruments, or the means of producing the comforts of life, when these means are not used to share the comforts of life.

For nearly a quarter of a century, we have been taking away the means of sharing the comforts of life from those who are sharing the comforts of life on exactly the same basis as from those who do not share the comforts of life and have the means to do so in their possession. The result naturally is that the production of the comforts of life have been greatly reduced. And now we seem determined to further take away the means of producing comforts by further division of management; by further taxing undistributed profits used in producing the comforts of life. We are determined to tax more and more the production of the comforts of life and seem bent on refusing to tax those who destroy the comforts of life. That is, we tax production but do not tax extravagant consumption. We are, by so doing, indirectly taxing ordinary consumption of the man with small income by making it almost impossible for him to get the comforts of life. His real sacrifice is very great under a system of taxing the production of comforts; much greater than the sacrifice or the pay which the large destroyers of the comforts of life are obliged to make.

Little progress can be made in solving the problem of sharing the comforts of life until we start at the very crux of the problem. If we so arrange our political or social affairs so that those people who do not add to the comforts of life of the masses in proportion to their ability—have little ability to manage—then we need not fear how much power any man or group gets, in the way of controlling the production of the comforts of life.

When we have solved this crucial problem, then we may approach the wage problem and the money problem. The wage problem and money problem are thrown out of their natural course by the fear of too much power going into the hands of those who do not honestly attempt to share the comforts of life. The three problems are correlated. A taxing system that is unsound and is based on arbitrary force is bound to result in a wage system based on arbitrary force and a money system based on credit. This is true because certain groups often get control of too large a fraction of the comforts of life and it is necessary, in order to correct this management of the means of more evenly distributing comforts, to have a flexible money system and an arbitrary wage system.

If you believe those who are helping to more evenly share the comforts of life should be encouraged in doing so and those who do not help more evenly share the comforts of life be retarded in their failure to do so, help this idea along. You ask how this can be done. It can be done by calling the attention of your friends and neighbors to these articles, cutting out the articles and handing them to people who are interested in good government to read. In addition, it can be done by asking questions as to the points that are not clear so that those steps in the program which have not been made clear may be further explained, illustrated and amplified.

In addition, the reader may help by challenging any of the statements which seem to be out of harmony and impractical as to operation.

Under a democratic form of government, or even under a constitutional form of democracy, it is necessary that the fundamentals of social relations and the law of action and reaction be understood by the voting majority. Because, under a democracy one man's vote has as much influence as another so that the majority of people must become informed on these fundamental questions before we can have more comforts to share and a more evenly distribution of the comforts of life. So the reader may help share the comforts of life by helping spread the leaves that will bring about a better understanding of human relations.

and the Sermon on the Mount," if you had recently read the entire chapters 5, 6 and 7 of Matthew?

The philosophy of Jesus is the Bible but not your philosophy. "Seek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you" (Matt. 7:7).

Your philosophy is built upon sand. Get up on the rock (the stone which the builders rejected will be made the head of the corner). Most of these are hard things.

Remember the fleshy beast which St. John saw, when standing on the sand of the sea, coming up out of the sea. It had the name of blasphemy (Rev. 13). It will not inherit the earth. The meek will inherit the earth. The earth abideth forever. Christ is the only righteous. Righteousness in the law alone will not save. Christ is the Savior. All that man does of himself is vain and temporal. This is only a discussion.

Editor Register:

In a recent issue Mr. Weeks asked me "to give him information as to the source of my alleged authority" in the home, the state, the church and the school. In answer I would beg of Mr. Weeks to read and quote my words correctly. Farther on he speaks of "this (Kreidt's) unauthenticated and unauthoritative claim to his (Kreidt's) authority over" "the home, the state, the church, and the school." I never claimed to have any such authority, nor has the Lutheran church ever claimed it. What I said, was that "parents and masters are all those who, according to God's ordinance, are placed over us in the home, the state, the church, and school;" and "that we honor them, when we regard them as God's representatives, of our own accord do for them what we can, obey them in all things in which God has placed them over us, and esteem them as a precious gift of God." That is plain English. For Mr. Weeks to take from those words that I claim authority over the home, the state, the church and school reveals but one of two things: Either he cannot understand plain English, or he does not want to.

This entire debate started with Mr. Week's assertion "that it is a misnomer to call religious schools educational institutions," and "that religion has no relation to morality nor to education." That was the point at issue. Mr. Weeks has failed to stick to the issue, for the very good reason, that he had nothing "but his personal convictions" to stand on. So he shifted the argument to an attack upon the Bible, against God and Christianity. Unwittingly he has shown his real motive: Bitter enmity against Christianity. If that is his conviction, I pity him, but will not continue the debate against him. The time will come, when also Mr. Weeks will "confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father," for he too "shall see the Son of Man come in his glory" to judge the nations of earth. He despises and rejects Jesus Christ as his Savior, but he will accept Him as his judge. There will be no escape from that; he will not be able to dodge that issue.

"Why do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing? The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against his anointed, saying, Let us break their bands asunder, and cast away their cords from us. He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision. Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure. Yet have I set my king upon my holy hill of Zion." Psalm 2:1-6.

Mr. Weeks may cling to his "convictions"; I will cling to the Word of God.

E. H. KREIDT
Olive, Calif., June 16, 1937.

Editor Register: I have been reading The Register Clearing House section of your paper the last few nights and I have noticed that there is quite a bit of controversy over the Written Word and Jesus Christ.

I would like to, Lord willing, express my convictions on what is wrong with us as a whole, as a professing Christian people. I put myself in the same class as I also hope I am in the race for Eternal Life. I claim not to be perfect and I do want to be honest with God and man.

I have discovered that we are claiming much that we do not have; are not living what we claim; and are not honest enough to admit it when God does expose our failures. It has been proven that the more we claim that we cannot manifest, the greater the fall, when we are shown in the true light.

One thing that is taught that we possess now, but apparently have not is the Biblical Born Again. It is written "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him; and he cannot sin, because he is born of God." 1 John 3:9.

Also, "We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not." 1 John 5:8.

I claim not to be born again now, because I do too many things wrong, not willingly, but nevertheless things to be repented of.

I know too that if I endure I must be born again as the scriptures say. If I am ever worthy to be "born again" as the scripture saith, what better condition could I get into than that, where it would be impossible for me to sin against God and man; and I could not commit sin of any kind.

Lord willing, I for one am seeking to be worthy for that condition some day, but frankly I cannot claim it now.

I wonder why people do not realize that big things and lasting success always comes from doing or living little things, that we may be worthy for something greater? The finish of a race is the climax, and in the spiritual race how much more so.

People who read this, if it is printed, may think of me as they will, but I do urge every one of us to be honest with God, himself, and fellowman.

RICHARD NAGEL.

Editor Register:

I have been much interested in reading the discussions on religious subjects from Mr. Kreidt and Mr. Weeks.

When it comes to the subject of creation, we know that we are just creatures. There is one creator. The living God who made all things. Man makes many discoveries and inventions; for instance, electricity and steam have been in existence, before we discovered how to apply and use them.

We did not make ourselves, as mankind has not the ability to create anything, as that belongs to God only, so we could not fashion ourselves; if we could we would have some very funny specimens, some like monkeys, some monkey like and some who would claim relationship.

Create: To bring into being; to form out of nothing.—Webster's dictionary.

The gods men have made are of wood and stone, etc., and lots of them. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" and at last man after his own image.

Where was thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? Declare if thou hast understanding.—Job 38:4.

Shall he that contendeth with the Almighty instruct him? He that reproveth God let him answer it.—Job 40:2.

The word teaches us that there is an everlasting reward for the righteous and an eternal punishment for the wicked who repent not.

For instance, suppose we can escape the laws of the land, which is done many times, and count it a reward for being smart. Ought there not to be a final judgment? I believe there will be. Scarcely need we discuss about our body being from the dust, as this is common knowledge. "From dust thou art and to dust wilt return."

Life our most valuable possession. What did we know about it before we were born? Yet here we are and we have an abundant assurance of life beyond this one.

God is a spirit, so we need not be surprised that we do not approach him with our natural senses. When we are not spiritually born we do not commune with the heavenly Father. Those in a natural state are full of doubts, unbelief and mystified, but the true born again has abundant evidences that the unregenerated knows little or nothing about.

Yes there are those who profess to possess religion or Christianity who add or subtract and both, but will receive the penalty mentioned in Rev. 22:18-19.

I sincerely hope that we discover our searching for the truth that will find it to the benefit of us all, and not just to successfully contradict the other fellow's argument.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

YOUTHFUL CRITICS

Young people, those in full adolescence, are inclined to be harshly critical of their elders. Youth and inexperience combine to give the young people a feeling of knowledge and wisdom that is not in proportion with the facts. They are certain where informed people are in doubt. They are positive in denunciation where experienced and better-informed people are silent and sympathetic. Youth does not know that it does not know and consequently makes some serious mistakes.

One of these mistakes, very common indeed, is the readiness to express an opinion about people or things that they can have little knowledge of. "Old man Rogers is a regular skinklin. He walks to his office just to save a nickel and he eats crackers and milk for his lunch. The old miser."

The other young people nod their heads in acquiescence and add their bit. "Some Scrooge. And he has barrels of money." "Yeah, wouldn't you think he'd want to do something with it instead of just piling it up and piling it up?" Some even go as far as to make their remarks loud enough for the Old Scrooge to hear as he passes them on the street.

One day Old Scrooge passes on, very suddenly, and the townsfolk, most of whom were aware of it long ago, but hadn't felt called upon to spread the word to the children, knew that Mr. Rogers walked to the office for his health's sake, ate his light meals for the same reason. And he had left most of his money to build a school, an endowed school, for the youth of his home town. Children do not always know even when they have the evidence of their eyes. Eyes are limited when it comes to judging human values.

The young people are often critical of mother and dad. "Why doesn't dad extend his business? What's he afraid of? Why doesn't mother try to spruce up a bit? The idea of buying that old place in Bilberry! What's the idea? Just to use money, or what? The folks are so old-style they don't know what's going on. They're back in the nineties. I'd tell them a lot, but they don't listen to me. They're going to get stung, and how. But what do you expect?" Older people do not claim to be all-wise, or in the least degree, perfect, but they have some stored experiences that help them to get along in a complex world and enable them, at the same time, to carry along a couple of critical, if not too helpful, children. They would welcome the children's cooperation, but they know better than to abdicate in their favor.

What Age asks of Youth is a little cooperation, a degree of understanding, and, above all, an affectionate attitude that shows itself in kindly actions and courteous words. Father is not likely to open his heart and his books to the critical, superior youth. Mother is not likely to explain her plans for the future to the young person who brushes her off the stage with a cool, "I'll tell you how to do this. You listen to me. Your dated, but I'm up-to-the-minute and a second ahead." Not likely.

It is fine to be young, but it is better to be understanding. Mr. Patri has prepared a special booklet (No. 301) entitled, "Obedience," in which he tells parents how to cope with the difficult problems of disobedience. Send for it, enclosing ten cents. General Hugh S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK CITY—It would "give the Administration too much power" to require the states or cities to put up four dollars for every six dollars the Federal Government spends within their borders for relief, unless the President finds, they are unable financially to do so. At least that is the argument made against Senator Byrnes' proposed amendment to the relief bill.

A more accurate statement would be that it would impose too much political responsibility for the Administration to have to say t one state: "You've got to put up the whole 40 per cent because we find you are financially able to do it", but to let another get off with a 20 per cent contribution or 10 per cent or none at all on the ground that it is too poor to pay. It isn't a question of "too much power" at all.

In part it is a question of a politician not wanting to incur the political resentment of particular areas in the distribution of relief—but only in small part. The far greater part of the reason for the Administration's resistance to the Byrnes formula is still unstated.

There is already too much power in the relief business but it doesn't come from local responsibility and local self-government. The latter is exactly the reverse of "too much power". The excess of power lies in the surrender by Congress of the power of the purse, by lump sum appropriation of billions to the executive, to be spent when, where and as he wishes.

That same power of the purse was developed in English history as the principal check of the legislature on "too much power" in the executive. It was put into our Constitution for exactly that purpose. With the surrender of it goes the independence of Congress. In political government, patronage is everything. It results in some logging for Congress to say where money shall be spent. But the President to say, rolls more dangerous logs and delivers the legislature to the executive hog-tied and helpless.

The traditional Republican farm vote is now Democratic because of federal spending in agricultural areas. The unemployed and their families are for the executive exactly in proportion to the money it sends them. This vast number of votes in all parts of the country is in the Administration's pocket. So long as it, and not Congress, controls this spending—it can go into almost any congressional or senatorial district and wreck the candidacy of any member of Congress who opposes Administration policy. Every congressman knows that.

That is principally why Congress is just now more frequently a rubber stamp than an independent legislature. That condition will continue as long as Uncle Sam remains an executive Santa Claus and Congress abdicates its constitutional power of appropriation by lump sum donations of public treasure.

Under the Byrnes amendment the President can donate or withhold money according to a rule laid down by Congress. As matters now stand he can donate or withhold it according to a rule laid down by himself. Which of these two methods gives "too much power"?

In this one seemingly innocent device of letting the executive hand out public money by the billions to particular districts and individuals or withhold it as he sees fit, there has been given to the President the most powerful political implement that constitutionally could be imagined.

"We have trusted the President to spend 5 billions," says congressional supporters of the lump sum method, "why shouldn't we trust him to spend 15 billions?"

The answer is, "Because it's no longer necessary." In an emergency, Congress may abdicate its constitutional power and avoid its constitutional duty, but if it does that when the emergency is past, it has perpetrated hari-kari on its own principal reason for existence and mayhem if not murder on our form of constitutional democracy.

Saturday I had 5 cents and different ideas what to do with it, and finely I wawked around to the Kristal Kandy Kitchen and started to look in the window, and there was a sign in the window. Special if today only, chockit cream coconut balls, 40 cents a pound.

Me thinking G, herry, my favorite kind.

And I started to wonder how much of a pound 5 cents worth would be, and just then my toothake started to come back again, proberly on account of having all that candy in front of it, and I thawt, Gosh shang the luck, now I couldn't even eat one piece.

And I kept on standing there feeling farsee, and some man started to go passed with a lady, saying to her, Well, there's a picture for you, all the candy in the world in front of his nose and not a cent in his pockets. Many's the time I felt that at his age, and here's one time I partly make up to myself for passed sufferings, he said.

And what did he do but hand me a dime, saying, Here you go, sonny, wawk rite in and buy out the store.

And he kept on going with the lady, me thinking, G wizzikers my toothake has stopped again. Wich it had, proberly from the shock, and I stayed outside a little while longer trying to look the way I felt before I got the extra dime, and some more men went passed with and without ladies, but nothing elts happened so I weat in the store and asked for 5 cents worth of chockit cream coconut balls and the lady put 6 in a bag, and the smell of them made my toothake come back again and I stood outside the store about 5 more minutes looking the way I axually felt without any result, so I went home with my toothake feeling partly lucky on account of still having 10 cents in my pocket and a bag of candy for future reference.
